WALL STREET
BULLS REGAIN CONTROL OF STOCK PRICE
MOVEMENTS

Market is Still Governed Almost Entirely by Professional Operations—Practically Nothing in Day's News to Cause Rally.

BULLS BARELY OVER
2,000,000 SHARES

Operations for the Advance Are Renewed With Vigor Before the Close and Final Prices Are Around the Day's Best.

NEW YORK, July 22.—Bulls regained control of the stock market in today's trading. Apparently the bears were content to have their little fling in the last two sessions, and today pressed unwillingly into the line of the bull market, for they had no news to cause a rally.

There is a feeling in some circles that the move in the market is a little premature, but a group of professional operators believe that a fortnight ago they began control of the price movement on the upside, and are determined to work prices steadily higher. This group is in financial backing of one bank, and is apparently unwilling to take any active part in the procedure, but is to be unopposed to the move.

Trade Largely Professional. The market was a good deal more entirely by professional operations. There was practically nothing in the day's news to cause a natural rally of share prices, but better than expected second quarter earnings statements of a number of companies, however, helped speculative sentiment. The general public, as well as a large body of more or less professional traders, still held back from the market, regarding it as too high while business was still under uncertain. Total sales barely exceeded 2,000,000 shares.

More Reports Received. Second quarter and first half earnings statements continued to be notable exceptions to the general tendency. Allis-Chalmers reported first half net of $1.57 a share, against $1.73; General Electric, $1.01 vs. $1.89, and United States Leather showed a small balance for the quarter against a large deficit last year. Westinghouse reported first half net of $3.13 a share, however, was substantially less than the $4.93 reported for the period a year ago, and Allis-Chalmers' $1.05 for the first half was one-third the net reported a year ago.

Published estimate of last week's oil output indicated further decline of about 30,000 barrels a day, largely in the mid-continent area, which encouraged further activity in the oil market. Credit conditions were unchanged, with call loans held at 2 percent.

Vigorous Bidding Late. The market opened irregularly, but pivotal shares met with support from the first. Stocks advanced substantially higher by afternoon, before the close, and closing prices were around the day's best.

Up to 2 1/2. After selling 2 1/2, the market moved up to 2 1/2. Telephone, General Electric, and Union Carbide, and Radio Keith, American Power and Driggs rose to new points, the last named to a high, reflecting vigorous pool activity.

American Can was a favorite, and nearly 5 points in response to activity.

Steel was an object of bearish interest, with about 4 points, and closing at 2.

In the commodity market, futures closed 1/2 cent and higher. Corn gained about 1/2 cent. Cotton was under pressure during most of the day.

Mercury 10 Degrees Below Average — Heavy Rains in Eastern Country.

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, July 22.—Great Britain is experiencing one of the most unusual summer cold spells in years. It was cooler here last night than for ordinary nights in November, the thermometer on Hampstead Heath dropping to 45 degrees while the ground temperature was within 6 degrees of freezing. GENERAL BREAK IN NATION'S HEAT WAVE IS FORECAST

Thunderstorms Indicated for Ohio Valley, Lower Lake Region, Middle and North Atlantic States.

WASHINGTON, July 22.—A break in the oppressive heat wave today or tonight was the cheerful prospect held out to a sweltering nation today by the Weather Bureau. There were thunder showers this afternoon in Baltimore, where lightning killed a man and set fire to an apartment house.

"The indications are for thunderstorms within the next 24 hours in the Ohio Valley, Tennessee, the Lower Lake region and the Middle Atlantic States and North Atlantic States," last night's forecast said, "and scattered thunderstorms are probable during Wednesday in the northern portion of the South Atlantic States."

"There will be a break in the heat wave Tuesday as far east as the Appalachian Mountains and by Wednesday night in the Middle Atlantic and North Atlantic States and moderate temperatures will likely prevail Wednesday from the Ohio Valley and Lower Lake region eastward to the Atlantic Coast."

The bureau's statement noted that July temperature records had been broken at numerous places yesterday and today of temperatures of 103 degrees in Philadelphia, 102 degrees in Atlantic City, Richmond and Cape Henry, while New York's July record of 99 degrees was equaled.

After a new all-time record of 105 degrees here on Sunday, the mercury continued yesterday to 103.

BANK ROBBERS SLUG CASHIER
AND ESCAPE WITH $100,000

Of Loot at Hartford (Wis.) Bank $85,000 Is in Securities, Mostly Negotiable.

By the Associated Press.
HARTFORD, Wis., July 22.—Three men robbed the First National Bank here of about $100,000 shortly before noon today after slugging the cashier and threatening customers.

Two customers and five employees were in the bank when the robbers, all young men, walked in. The leader strode over to the cashier, R. W. Bailey, and without warning struck him on the head with a pistol. The other two took positions on opposite sides of the lobby and stood guard. The leader then ordered the assistant cashier, H. L. Radke, to open the safe for "we'll open you up." The leader then made a hurried trip through the safe and the cages, picking up $15,000 in currency and $85,000 in securities, nearly all of which is negotiable. The robbers escaped.

OLIVE OIL AS AUTO LUBRICANT

Car Consumers Quirt on Seville to Olive Oil.

By the Associated Press.
MADRID, July 22.—Manuel Pineda, a member of the Seville Municipal Council, today motivated from that city to Madrid using olive oil as the only lubricant of his automobile. He said he consumed one liter (about a quart) of the oil with excellent results.

Olive producers have asked the government to support experiments which they hope will result in extensive use of olive oil for lubrication now accomplished by mineral oils as a measure toward solving the problem of olive production.

GIRL AND MOTHER
HELD; ABANDONED
INFANT IN HOTEL

Edna Lopinot of Cahokia, Ill., Arrested With Parent When They Return to Claim Boy Left in Chicago

CHILD DESERTED
THREE MONTHS AGO

Tell of Struggle to Earn Money for Baby's Keep in St. Louis Orphanage Where It Was Born.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
CHICAGO, July 22.—Jimmie Stevens Taylor, a chubby little boy who has lived in a Chicago orphanage three months, is going to have his mother by his side after all when he sits down to his first birthday cake next month.

Yesterday, a tearful girl called for the infant at St. Vincent's Orphanage and claimed him for her own, even though a policeman waited in the next room to arrest her for abandoning the child three months ago.

Jimmie's mother is not married. She lives with her parents near Cahokia, Ill., just south of East St. Louis. She is Miss Edna Lopinot and is 19 years old.

Father's Wages Small.
Her father, Emil Lopinot, makes only $2.50 a day as a driller in a quarry which goes a long way toward explaining why the little boy has been a foundling instead of the greatest jewel in the Lopinot household.

It helps to explain, too, why Jimmie was named for the Chicago hotel in which his mother abandoned him and for the policeman who took him in charge after a belated find of the infant. Of course, Jimmie Stevens Taylor isn't his real name after all. It's Lawrence Lopinot, and so he was called today when his mother, and her mother, Mrs. Emil Lopinot, appeared in court today on a charge of child abandonment.

The story of Lawrence Lopinot is not a new one. It began more than a year ago when his mother was a high school student. A meeting with a married man, clandestine appointments, an automobile trip—so it ran.

Told Secret to Parents.
Afterwards, with ruin confronting her, the girl told her story to her parents. Just a few weeks before she had found work as a typist, having left school, but she was soon forced to leave her place, cutting down the Lopinot income again to the father's wages.

The baby was born in a St. Louis hospital and was left at St. Ann's Orphanage, at Page and Union boulevards.

Edna and her mother got jobs as soon as Edna was able to leave the hospital, and from their earnings they were able to pay $5 a week for the baby's board. But after a time the strain became too great, it was decided to take the baby away and abandon him.

"We wanted him to have a good home," Mrs. Lopinot told Chicago policemen yesterday, "and so we decided to leave him in a place where he would likely be found by a person of means."

The child was abandoned in the Stevens Hotel, where Mrs. Lopinot and her daughter had registered as residents of Detroit, but instead of being found by a wealthy man, the baby was discovered by hotel employees, who called a policeman.

Search for Mother.
For a little boy like Jimmie, the separation from his mother was no great privation. At St. Vincent's they were very kind to him. They tried to find his mother for him, too, and finally Miss Bernadine Healy of the Orphanage staff, who had taken a special interest in the baby, was able, through a long and involved investigation, to get in touch with his mother.

Three months ago when Jimmie was left in the orphanage he was a helpless baby. Now he is able to stand alone and toddle a few steps. He can make the gurgling sounds that presage articulate speech.

Later on, when his mother has satisfied justice for abandoning him, Jimmie will be taken back to the humble home of the Lopinots. Probably he never will know his father, who left town long before Jimmie was born.

But from his mother, who is brave enough to face the world, he will have love and a home.

Hunger-Striking Tiger Fooled.

JACKSON, O'BRIEN
BEGIN SECOND DAY
IN AIR; ALL'S WELL

Endurance Aviators Obligated to Sleep on Blankets When Pneumatic Mattress Develops Leak.

Dale Jackson and Forest O'Brien, in the yellow and orange monoplane, The Greater St. Louis, completed at 7:11 o'clock this morning the first 24 hours of the flight they hope will regain for them the refueling endurance championship of the world. They have 22 more days to fly before they can surpass the 553-hour record set by the Hunter brothers at Chicago early this month.

Although they have remained 1500 feet above the ground for the last 24 hours, the flyers suffered discomfort yesterday and last night from a puncture. They found their pneumatic mattress leaked and, instead of having a comfortable, yielding bed, they slept in shifts on two blankets spread on the main gasoline tank.

The damaged mattress was lowered to the ground and repaired and representative of the flyers was sent in to St. Louis to attempt to buy another.

The hard bed apparently was prominent in O'Brien's mind this morning when he wrote a note to Bill Brewster and Shorty Chaffee, the refueling crew, ordering supplies for the day. It read:

"Shorty and Bill: Expect you guys are in bed yet but I am not but would like to. I think we should have 50 gal. gas. Oil as usual and eat also. Think we will send our bed down. Maybe it can be patched. If so, o. k. If not, Hell, How is everything down there so far?"

Seventh Contact Made.
The refueling crew took off at 7:20 with gasoline, making the fifth contact of the flight. The sixth contact, in which cans containing oil and food were lowered to the endurance plane, was made a few minutes later, and the seventh, when the cans, containing the defective mattress and mail from the flyers, were transferred, shortly before 9 a. m.

When the duties of the morning were concluded, when the motor oil had been changed and the rocker arms greased, when gasoline had been pumped from the fuselage to the wing tanks, the flyers settled down to read their morning mail. Dozens of letters and telegrams were sent up to them, with copies of all St. Louis newspapers.

Since they are flying a level course, it is possible for the pilot who is temporarily in control to fly the plane with his feet while he reads, with only an occasional glance around.

The night, however, was not as bad as the flyers had feared and they sailed through the darkness with their navigation lights, red and green from the front and white from the rear, proclaiming their presence to observers on the ground.

Persons connected with the ground crew announced today that Jackson and O'Brien so far have received donations of about $10,000, a third of the sum they decided was necessary to finance the flight.

NEUN AND KUHS
OPPOSE FRANCHISE
FOR STREET CARS

Two Members of Transportation Survey Express Views in Separate Minority Statements.

AGAINST TERMINABLE
PERMIT PROPOSAL

This, It Is Understood Will Be Recommended by Majority in Commission's Final Report.

Two members of the city's Transportation Survey Commission have filed separate minority statements opposing a new street railway franchise, it was learned today.

They are Walter J. G. Neun and Edward L. Kuhs, both members of the Board of Aldermen, which alone has power to grant franchises in St. Louis. Neun is president of the board and Kuhs represents the First Ward.

Both declare their objection to that part of the Commission's forthcoming report, which recommends that the city grant a new "terminable permit" to the St. Louis Public Service Co., subject to the charter provision limiting franchises to 50 years. It is understood that the Commission's final report, due for release this week, will say "a majority" of the Commission recommends that type of franchise be granted.

Objections to Be Printed.
Chairman Russell of the commission said the objections of Neun and Kuhs were in the form of letters dissenting from the majority recommendation as to franchise, and that they would be printed in the report, and thus would not constitute a minority report.

Neun said he filed his objection in order to make it clear he had not abandoned the position he has consistently maintained against a new franchise. Kuhs also has held out against a new franchise throughout the negotiations of the Commission, and was out of the city when the meeting was held at which the majority recommendation was adopted.

Neun said today, discussing the stand he has taken, that he considered the "terminable permit" recommended by the majority of the commission to be a franchise and that it was not possible under any type of franchise for the city to exercise home rule over its utility, as he thinks it should.

This view is supported by an opinion given to the commission last fall by City Counselor Meunch stating that under existing laws it is not possible for the city to grant any form of franchise under which it could regulate fares and service because the State Public Service Commission has exclusive jurisdiction over those matters.

Early in the deliberations of the commission Neun and Kuhs objected to the time given to consideration of a new franchise. At one time Kuhs sharply accused the commission of having done nothing but work for a franchise and after that the group took up a study of the physical aspects of the transportation problem.

The franchise recommendation is based on the report of the commission's engineer, R. F. Kelker Jr., that improvements costing $25,000,000 should be made in the street railway system, and the report of the Finance Committee that such improvements cannot be financed without a new franchise.

The Public Service Co. has franchises continuing until 1939 and 1948, the company asserting that the latter grant is a blanket extension of its operating rights.

RUM FOR MINCE MEAT STOLEN
FROM WAREHOUSE IN CHICAGO

Forty Barrels of It Trucked Away by Seven Robbers in Overalls.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, July 22.—Forty barrels of mince meat, used in the manufacture of mince meat, was stolen last night from the warehouse of Libby, McNeill & Libby in the Union Stock Yards. The bootleg value of the rum was placed at $30,000.

Seven robbers, wearing overalls, held 14 employees at bay, spent an hour in rolling the barreled rum to a truck and escaped after exchanging shots with a special policeman. The robbers apparently had entered the warehouse in mid-afternoon and mingled with the workers until quitting time. They produced pistols, herded the employees into an office and then detailed one of their number to accompany the watchman on his rounds, to make certain that he rang his boxes regularly.

PRESIDENT

Declares it Secures Full Defense to U. S. and Lays the Foundation for Further Reduction of Armaments.

"TO SPEED MARCH OF WORLD PEACE"

U. S. First of the 5 Signatory Powers to Give Legislative Sanction to Limitations Agreement Adopted 3 Months Ago.

WASHINGTON, July 22.—President Hoover today signed the London naval treaty. In the east room of the White House, with Secretaries Stimson and Adams and Senators Reed (Rep.), Pennsylvania, and Robinson (Dem.), Arkansas, conference delegates, and Senator Watson of Indiana, the majority leader, looking on, Mr. Hoover signed the pact for limitation of all fighting vessels of the American, English and Japanese navies.

The Senate gave its consent yesterday to ratification.

Vice President Curtis, Chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, and Senator Swanson of Virginia, the ranking Democrat on the Foreign Relations Committee, also witnessed the signing.

President Hoover signed the document with the gold pen used by the American delegates to the London Conference when they placed their names upon the agreement at the end of the parley.

Earlier in the day the President said in a statement:

"I shall have the gratification of signing the naval treaty this afternoon at 2 o'clock. It is a matter of satisfaction that this great accomplishment in international relations has at all steps been given united support of both our political parties."

"With the ratification by the other Governments the treaty will translate an emotion deep in the hearts of millions of men and women into a practical fact of Government and international relations."

"It will renew again the faith of the world in the moral forces of good will and patient negotiation as against the blind forces of suspicion and competitive armament. It will secure the full defense of the United States. It will mark a further long step toward lifting the burden of militarism from the backs of mankind and to speed the march forward of world peace. It will lay the foundation upon which further constructive reduction in world armaments may be accomplished in the future."

"We should, by this act of willingness to join with others in limiting armament, have dismissed from the mind of the world any notion that the United States entertains ideas of aggression, imperial power or exploitation of foreign nations."

Foreign Governments Notified. Immediately after the signing, Secretary Stimson cables instructions to the American Embassies in Rome, Paris, Tokio and London, directing that they inform the respective Foreign Offices of the signatures. They also were instructed to place before the Foreign Ministers a copy of the reservation attached to the treaty by the Senate. The ratification instrument signed by the President will be taken to London by J. Theodore Morrison, chief of the Western European Division of the State Department and the ranking diplomatic adviser at the London conference. The ratification will be deposited at the American Embassy in London until the ceremony of the formal deposit of the other signatory Powers at the British Foreign Office.

AIRMAIL PILOT KILLED IN CRASH DUE TO

W. F. Martin of Pontiac, Mich., Victim of Accident Near Huron, O.

By the Associated Press.
HURON, O., July 22.—W. F. Martin, 26 years old, of Pontiac, Mich., flying the air from Cleveland to Pontiac, killed instantly early today when his plane crashed on a farm here. The plane was twisted badly. It was necessary to use automobiles to pull the wreckage out of the wreckage.

Fog, rain and darkness, possibly with engine trouble, thought to have caused the crash. The plane was seen shortly before the crash on the ground, but had insufficient light to use his parachute. It was folded in its pack.

Martin's wife resides in Pontiac, Mich. Mrs. Roy Patterson, of another air mail pilot.

The crash occurred about 8 a. m. on the farm of George Beatty, who said he heard the plane crash. An hour after when he went into the field, he discovered the wreckage and pilot's body.

Pilot Patterson had started on a search for the wreckage shortly before the crash was found.

Martin was a regular pilot on night air mail run of the Thompson Aircraft Corporation line between Cleveland and Bay City. His plane was the first to operate in its two years of operation.

GRAND JURY OPENS INVESTIGATION OF LINGLE'S KILLING

Many Suspects Arrested
in Six Weeks Since Murder, Frankie Foster Is Only One in Custody.

ST. LOUIS REPORTER
FIRST WITNESS

Chicago Herald-Examiner
Hints Articles Written by H. T. Brundidge Were Inspired by the Tribune.

By JOHN T. ROGERS,
Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, July 22.—Six weeks after the slaying of Frankie Foster, grand jury began its investigation of the killing.

Many suspects arrested in weeks of highly dramatized investigation, only one man in custody today, Frankie Foster, original owner of the weapon used by Lingle's slayer, Foster, who was hoodlum and one-time "big shot" for "Scarface" Al Capone and George (Bugs) Moran, rival gangsters, recently was arrested in Los Angeles, where he stood after the slaying. When standing on his constitutional rights to avoid incriminating himself by talking, he feigned ignorance and as an aid to the investigation has proved to be a very clever little fellow. Lingle then being on his way to the races. He acknowledged the greeting and a few moments later, in the subway, two men were seen to greet him and walk with him in conversation, one on each side. The three had proceeded for when a third man was seen to hasten from behind and shoot Lingle in the head. Lingle fell, mortally wounded, and the two men at his side ran forward, while the slayer sprang over a rail after dropping his revolver to the walk and later dropping a suitcase on the sidewalk above.

The revolver was traced to a purchase of six of that kind by Foster several months ago. This led to his arrest in Los Angeles. The glove, worn and frayed, is size No. 8, for the left hand. It was a very warm day, hardly one on which gloves would be worn, and the killer was observed in his flight frantically tugging to remove the glove from his left hand. It was not observed that the wore two gloves. The glove he cast off, which is believed to have been worn to prevent leaving fingerprints, which would indicate he was a man with a police record whose fingerprints are on record. Is a common brand sold in many stores and the police have been unable to trace it to the store which handled it or to the man who purchased it.

Murder Skillfully Executed.
While police think the slayer may have had accomplices in the subway to cover his retreat, they have abandoned the original theory that the men in the automobile who hailed Lingle to give him a tip on the horse did so to point him out, possibly to an imported gunman who did not know him as the man to be slain. But all agree that the killing was carefully planned and executed. Lingle's movements were so hard to follow. It was his daily custom to walk through that subway and take a train for the race course and on the day he was slain he entered the subway at 1:20 p. m., an hour when many persons are passing through it.

A crowd is considered by gunmen a good place to fire a shot, because of the confusion that immediately follows, and with everyone running it becomes a simple matter for a killer to escape. This is exactly what occurred when Lingle was slain and almost before anyone realized what had happened, the slayer had disappeared in the crowd on the street.

As usual in such cases there began a quick roundup of known Chicago gunmen but none was identified as resembling the slayer. This gives rise to the belief in police circles that an imported gunman did the job to frustrate attempts at identification of Chicago gunmen, it being a known custom for gunmen of one city to bring one of their kind, not known to local police, from another city for killings of a serious nature, such as that of Lingle.

After such a job the stranger returns to his home city. He either is paid for the job or similar work is done for his gang when the need arises.

Slayer Was a Professional.
The killer of Lingle was a professional. All accounts agree that he went at his work with great deliberation and accuracy. He fired but one shot, which struck Lingle at the base of the brain, but no one recalls that he held the revolver in his left hand. It would seem he is left-handed, if he used the glove he discarded to prevent leaving fingerprints. He did not dash away after the killing, but carefully vaulted over the rail and walked fast to the street, but not with such haste as to attract undue attention. He was seen as far as three blocks away, when he was lost in a crowd. Any other but a professional or one who had not been carefully rehearsed in such a bold and desperate deed ordinarily would have taken to flight.

And so the police realize they are dealing with a case that will tax their wits, with the odds against them, despite the attractive reward totaling $5,725, of which $10,000 is for confidential information of the identity of the slayer, with a guarantee to the informant that his identity never will be disclosed.

GROVER'S AUTO FIRM OWES $123,559; ASSETS $217,102

Bankruptcy Schedule Lists Some of Property as of Doubtful Value.

Bankruptcy schedules for the St. Louis County Automobile Co. of Clayton, filed yesterday with Referee in Bankruptcy Coles, by E. McDonald Stevens, attorney for Henry C. Kirchner, receiver, show assets of $217,102, many of them listed as doubtful, and liabilities of $123,559.

The company was placed in the hands of a receiver after it became known that Harry von Stein Grover, president, who had killed himself July 2, had given forged chattel mortgages to four banks and two finance companies among the securities presented as collateral for loans of more than $100,000.

Notes held by the banks total $112,162 and miscellaneous bills constitute the rest of the liabilities. Assets include real estate with a list value of $143,000, but mortgaged so that an equity of only $61,735 remains; notes listed at $112,934, but claimed as doubtful; automobiles in stock worth $21,982; machinery, $2663; accounts, $23,293, but of doubtful collectibility; money on deposit with banks, $3042, and cash $17.50.

A July Wedding—in a Bathing Pool

MR. AND MRS. AL BRUMBAUGH

At their bathing pool wedding at Rockaway, L. L. Casting conventions to the winds, they waded out into the pool and spoke their vows as the preacher officiated from a raft. The bride was Miss Elizabeth Tappe of Richmond Hill, L. I.

ter does not resemble the killer, but it is known that he was in the subway in conversation with other men a few hours before the killing. Whether he was there at the time of the killing has not been established.

The killer has been described as a young man, about 22 years old, of the "college boy" type. As Lingle entered the subway he was hailed by two men in an automobile, who called to him to bet on a certain race horse. Lingle then being on his way to the races. He acknowledged the greeting and a few moments later, in the subway, two men were seen to greet him and walk with him in conversation, one on each side. The three had proceeded for when a third man was seen to hasten from behind and shoot Lingle in the head. Lingle fell, mortally wounded, and the two men at his side ran forward, while the slayer sprang over a rail after dropping his revolver to the walk and later dropping a suitcase on the sidewalk above.

The revolver was traced to a purchase of six of that kind by Foster several months ago. This led to his arrest in Los Angeles. The glove, worn and frayed, is size No. 8, for the left hand. It was a very warm day, hardly one on which gloves would be worn, and the killer was observed in his flight frantically tugging to remove the glove from his left hand. It was not observed that the wore two gloves. The glove he cast off, which is believed to have been worn to prevent leaving fingerprints, which would indicate he was a man with a police record whose fingerprints are on record. Is a common brand sold in many stores and the police have been unable to trace it to the store which handled it or to the man who purchased it.

Murder Skillfully Executed.
While police think the slayer may have had accomplices in the subway to cover his retreat, they have abandoned the original theory that the men in the automobile who hailed Lingle to give him a tip on the horse did so to point him out, possibly to an imported gunman who did not know him as the man to be slain. But all agree that the killing was carefully planned and executed. Lingle's movements were so hard to follow. It was his daily custom to walk through that subway and take a train for the race course and on the day he was slain he entered the subway at 1:20 p. m., an hour when many persons are passing through it.

A crowd is considered by gunmen a good place to fire a shot, because of the confusion that immediately follows, and with everyone running it becomes a simple matter for a killer to escape. This is exactly what occurred when Lingle was slain and almost before anyone realized what had happened, the slayer had disappeared in the crowd on the street.

As usual in such cases there began a quick roundup of known Chicago gunmen but none was identified as resembling the slayer. This gives rise to the belief in police circles that an imported gunman did the job to frustrate attempts at identification of Chicago gunmen, it being a known custom for gunmen of one city to bring one of their kind, not known to local police, from another city for killings of a serious nature, such as that of Lingle.

After such a job the stranger returns to his home city. He either is paid for the job or similar work is done for his gang when the need arises.

Slayer Was a Professional.
The killer of Lingle was a professional. All accounts agree that he went at his work with great deliberation and accuracy. He fired but one shot, which struck Lingle at the base of the brain, but no one recalls that he held the revolver in his left hand. It would seem he is left-handed, if he used the glove he discarded to prevent leaving fingerprints. He did not dash away after the killing, but carefully vaulted over the rail and walked fast to the street, but not with such haste as to attract undue attention. He was seen as far as three blocks away, when he was lost in a crowd. Any other but a professional or one who had not been carefully rehearsed in such a bold and desperate deed ordinarily would have taken to flight.

And so the police realize they are dealing with a case that will tax their wits, with the odds against them, despite the attractive reward totaling $5,725, of which $10,000 is for confidential information of the identity of the slayer, with a guarantee to the informant that his identity never will be disclosed.

Bankruptcy Schedule Lists Some of Property as of Doubtful Value.

Bankruptcy schedules for the St. Louis County Automobile Co. of Clayton, filed yesterday with Referee in Bankruptcy Coles, by E. McDonald Stevens, attorney for Henry C. Kirchner, receiver, show assets of $217,102, many of them listed as doubtful, and liabilities of $123,559.

The company was placed in the hands of a receiver after it became known that Harry von Stein Grover, president, who had killed himself July 2, had given forged chattel mortgages to four banks and two finance companies among the securities presented as collateral for loans of more than $100,000.

Notes held by the banks total $112,162 and miscellaneous bills constitute the rest of the liabilities. TELLS OF $2200 LOSS PLAYING DICE AT AGUA CALIENTE

C. A. More Dropped $4950
but Stopped Payment on Checks for $2750, He Says in Deposition.

During a two-day stay at Agua Caliente, Mexico, last February, when he spent all his waking hours at a gambling casino, C. A. More, vice president of the Chouteau Shoe Manufacturing Co., lost $2200 at dice before cashing checks for $2750, which he also lost, he related in a deposition yesterday.

The deposition was taken by H. Randolph Mudd, an attorney, in connection with a suit through which his office associate, Jerome Simon, is seeking to recover from More the amount of the checks as assignee of the Agua Caliente Hotel Co., operator of the casino. As has been told, More said he stopped payment on the checks because he felt the game was "not on the square."

Played for 12 Hours.
More said he and Nat Cohen, a shoe salesman of Houston, Tex., went to the Mexican resort last Feb. 22 from San Diego, Calif., spending 12 hours in the casino without leaving for home. First he lost all his cash, $400. Then he lost $1800 obtained with a cashier's check. Then he started cashing personal checks on a University City bank, accepting chips of $10 and $25 values.

"When I left, he said, 'I didn't have a dollar or a chip. When I learned about the game I went to Los Angeles and wired my bank to stop payment on the eight checks. Fortunately Cohen had a little money left and he paid my hotel bill at Agua Caliente.'"

Two of the checks, for a total of $800, were marked "insufficient funds," according to Mudd. More stood on his constitutional rights and declined to state how much money he had in bank when he drew the checks.

Started Playing at Once.
Under questioning by Mudd, More described the details of his visit to Agua Caliente, which Mudd pointed out means "hot water" in Spanish. "We arrived by train at 10 a. m.," he related, "and went directly to the casino. It was an elaborate place with gaming tables and a huge bar. We passed right through the lobby into the gambling room. There were no officials in the lobby, only the check girl."

"I started playing dice right away, craps I believe you call it. I lost $400 and had only been there an hour when I had to cash my first check. I was a cashier's check for $1800. I think I got $300 in cash and the rest in I. O. U.'s of the casino. When I ran out of I. O. U.'s several hours later, I presented my first personal check at the cashier's window, receiving $150 in chips. The red chips were for $10 and the blue ones for $25."

"Then I cashed five other personal checks for a total of $1600. I remember I got chips for all of these because I was in pretty good condition then, although we had been drinking all day. (Mudd's questions sought to show More had received cash and not gambling chips for his checks.)

"We quit about 11 o'clock, rented a cottage for $10, and returned at 10 a. m. the next day. I cashed two more checks for $500 each and by 4 p. m. I had lost that. I didn't have a thing left but the firm's money for traveling expenses. That was not a cash."

"Then we went to Los Angeles and I came home about two weeks later. That was my first trip to Agua Caliente."

More resides with his wife at 7850 Brynne boulevard, University City. He is about 35 years old.

Knock Combination Off
Safe of Good Humor Ice Cream Co., 4807 Page
Boulevard.

A safe at the Good Humor Ice Cream Co., 4807 Page boulevard, was forced open and $750 was taken by two men early today after they had forced William Krieger, manager, and Samuel Kulitak, cashier, to tie each other with their hands and feet of each other with clothesline which the robbers had brought with them.

Krieger was helping Kulitak, a baker at 4803 Page, to place some watermelons on ice at the ice cream company when the robbers entered, carrying tools with which they knocked the combination from the safe. Krieger and Kulitak released each other after the robbery.

The money of the loan company was taken from a wall safe. Cisek was locked in a closet when the robbers left and was released when passers-by heard him pounding on the door.

For the tenth time within a year the grocery of Ellis Fred, 2200 Walnut street, was held up yesterday. Two robbers obtained $75.

James Michel, 3292A Page boulevard, reported he was held up for $7 by an armed Negro who accosted him at Boyle and Duncan avenues.

MARINE PILOT FLIES BLIND FROM OMAHA TO WASHINGTON

Capt. Arthur Page Assisted by Companions, Who Execute
the Landings.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, July 22.—Capt. Arthur Page, crack Marine Corps aviator, completed yesterday the longest blind flight on record, from Omaha, Neb., to Washington.

Leaving Omaha at 6 o'clock yesterday morning, Page flew entirely by instruments and by following radio-controlled airways to Chicago, where he brought his plane to within 300 feet of the ground. Lieut. V. M. Guyon, also a marine, whose cockpit was uncovered, executed the landing.

At 1 o'clock the flyers left Chicago, pausing briefly at Cleveland and arriving at 5:40 o'clock at the naval air station here. All the plotting except the landings was done by Page, whose covered cockpit prevented him from seeing anything but his instrument board.

SOCIETY RAKES HEARST ON REBUILDING CASTLE

Ancient Art Order Criticizes Him on Restoring St. Donat's Mansion in Wales.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and New York World.
(Copyright, 1930, by Press and Publisher Publishing Co., New York, World and Post-Dispatch.)

LONDON, July 22.—Strong criticism of William Randolph Hearst, American publisher, for the way he has been restoring St. Donat's castle, ancient Welsh mansion in Glamorganshire which he bought several years ago, is made in the annual report of the Society for the Protection of Ancient Buildings issued here last night.

"Members cannot imagine," says the report, "the beauty and interest that might have been added to our country had the work at St. Donat's been carried through in the spirit of the original builders and under the influence of an 'artistic seeking' age. Good workmen and good designers, their minds imbued with contemporary knowledge and skill, could have made St. Donat's a still nobler place than it was and future generations would have had additional reason to believe we also can produce artists."

"As things now are it seems likely to attribute to us a moneylike cleverness that touches the facade and the sky how best to mock their better—the old masters."

The report then states that when society members approached Hearst they were courteously received, but could not get permission to send experienced members to the castle to give advice or criticism. Therefore, the report says, "it is difficult to report clearly the manner in which the society believed its principles had been outraged. It is believed that these principles have been neglected in the additions at St. Donat's and that all the arts of the 'antiquity maker' have been employed."

The report admits the new work might make "an excellent and correct background for a historical stage of film production," but the thought is expressed that it has not the true ring of either the old or the normal modern building.

"To find a place for a staircase or fireplace of fine workmanship, if or when it must be torn from its original setting, is admittedly right," continues the report. "Some of the pieces used at St. Donat's are of this nature and in regard to their preservation Mr. Hearst and his agents deserve our gratitude."

But concerning other antiquities brought directly from old houses or the shops of dealers the society believes otherwise, its report declaring:

"Tudor paneling is always fine, whether it stands incongruously in a New York apartment chamber or not very happily in St. Donat's castle, or in its original position. But everyone who appreciates such old workmanship, not for its money value but in relation to the life of past people, must feel a distaste for a chamber artfully decorated with the proceeds of such trading."

CHRISTIAN GROSS, DIPLOMAT, SUES WIFE FOR DIVORCE
Secretary of U. S. Legation in Bern, Names Spaniard as Co-respondent.
CHICAGO, July 22.—Capt. Christian Gross, secretary of the United States Legation in Bern, Switzerland, has filed two suits, one for divorce against his wife, Mrs. Virginia Harrison Gross, daughter of Francis Burton Harrison, former Governor of the Philippines, Attorney Robert E. Cantwell Jr., counsel for Gross, disclosed last night.

Capt. Gross, prominent polo player who was decorated by eight nations for valor in the World War, charged desertion in his divorce bill and named as a correspondent a "Spaniard named Alberti," who promised, Gross cited, to put his wife in grand opera within six months.

The second suit is directed toward clearing up the title to an $830,000 trust fund Gross says he established for himself several years ago by consolidating his assets.

Gross, a Chicagoan, married Miss Harrison in January, 1922, in the Philippines. There are two children, Peter, 7 years old, and Barbara, 5. By a separation agreement granted in Paris in 1928, the son was awarded to the mother and the daughter to the father. Attorney Cantwell said Mrs. Gross last resided in Paris.

CRASH ARE IDENTIFIEDVictims of Collision of Three Cars Found to Be Collinsville Youths.

The bodies of three Collinsville youths, who were killed when a roadster in which they were passengers collided with two other machines on the Collinsville road a short distance north of the East St. Louis city limits at 11:30 a. m. yesterday, were identified last night by their parents.

They were: William H. DesPain, 15 years old, 305 Plum street; Ernest Yankausky, 14, 519 Gurnsey avenue, and George Gross, 16, 205 South street.

Paul Mayer, 17, 1516 Vandalla avenue, Collinsville avenue, driver of the roadster, is in a serious condition at St. Mary's Hospital in East St. Louis with a skull fracture. Charles Miller, a dog trainer, Fairmount City, driver of the second machine struck by Mayer's car, is at his home suffering from internal injuries.

Witnesses told highway police that Mayer, driving north, attempted to pass a machine driven in the same direction by W. J. Dodd, 3205 Louisiana boulevard, East St. Louis. The roadster brushed against Dodd's car and then crashed head-on into Miller's machine, coming in the opposite direction. The four youths, two of whom were riding on the "turtle deck" of the roadster, were thrown to the pavement. The three who were killed suffered crushed skulls and broken limbs.

Gross was a student at Collinsville High School and DesPain and Yankausky were graduated from Webster grade school this year. The youths drove to East St. Louis yesterday morning and were starting home at the time of the collision.

GROGER NORRIS DEFINITELY
OUT OF SENATORSHIP RACEBroken Bow, Neb., Man Discloses Middle Name Is Winifred; $8,000 Slush Fund Alleged.

By the Associated Press. LINCOLN, Neb., July 22.—The idea of having two George W. Norrises as candidates for U. S. Senator in Nebraska, appeared today to have definitely disappeared as an issue.

George W. Norris, senior Senator from Nebraska who seeks re-nomination and reelection, is "George William Norris" when the name is spelled out. George W. Norris Broken Bow grocer who sought to oppose Senator Norris for the Republican nomination but whose filing for a place on the ballot was ruled out by the State Supreme Court, is "George Winifred Norris."

Each "George W. Norris" has insisted upon that form for his name. Senator Norris because it is the way in which he always is spoken of; the grocer because he does not care much for his middle name which is "Winifred." He said he discarded the middle name many years ago because it sounded "girlish."

The Broken Bow grocer arrived in Lincoln last night after Senator Gerald P. Nye of North Dakota had adjourned his investigation into the Nebraska situation. Grocer Norris announced he was definitely out of the competition by reason of the Supreme Court's ruling and because he lacked funds with which to enter the race as an Independent.

W. Clark Grubbs of Lincoln, a candidate for the State Legislature, yesterday testified he had been told of the existence of a $80,000 "slush" fund to defeat Senator Norris. Grubbs said he was told he could get a job campaigning against Senator Norris and that he would be paid from the fund.

PILOT OF WRECKED BRITISH AIR TAXI WED FEW MONTHSBride Collapsed on Learning of Crash in Kent, in Which Six Were Killed.

By the Associated Press. MEOPHAM, Kent, England, July 22.—A bride of a few months is among those whose husband was killed in yesterday's airplane tragedy here. Mrs. Henderson, young wife of Lieutenant-Colonel George L. P. Henderson, the pilot, flew to Croydon from Le Touquet with her husband. He returned to France to bring others to Croydon and she awaited him in London, completing plans for a vacation trip. On learning that he was dead she collapsed.

The other victims were Viscountess Ednam, a famous beauty; Mrs. Henrik Loeffler, noted for her brilliant entertainments, the Marquis of Dufferin and Ava, and Sir Edward Ward, and an assistant pilot, Charles Shearing.

The cause of the accident remained unsolved. The machine, a nearly new all-metal Junkers, owned by Col. Henderson's company and used temporarily as an air taxi, was seen to fly to pieces in the air.

Auto Skids Into River; 3 Drowned. CHARLESTON, W. Va., July 22.—Mrs. Eva Hupp, 28 years old, of Coal Fork, her 8-year-old daughter and her 6-year-old son, were drowned today when her automobile skidded on a wet pavement and went through the railing of a bridge, plunging about 80 feet into the Kanawha River.

Irish Rall Dispute Settled. DUBLIN, Irish Free State, July 22.—A settlement has been reached in the great southern railway dispute and a general strike which was ordered for midnight tonight will not take place.

POWER COMMISSION NOMINATIONS TIED UP

Walsh of Montana and McKel-lar Object to Indorsement
Without Inquiry.

Post-Dispatch Bureau.
301-305 Kelllogg Building.
WASHINGTON, July 22.—The plan for immediate re-organization of the Federal Power Commission which has jurisdiction over water power sites on navigable streams, was frustrated late yesterday when Senators Walsh of Montana and Mc-Kellar of Tennessee, both Democrats, objected to voting on the confirmation of three nominees until their records had been closely scrutinized.

Had the nominees, Claude L.
Draper of Wyoming, Ralph B. Wil-lamson of Washington and Marcel Garsaud of Louisiana, been approved by the Senate, they could have taken over the work of the present commission, composed of Secretaries of War, Interior and Agriculture.

Eventually the new commission will have five members and it was President Hoover's intention to give recess appointments to two commissioners, one Republican and one Democrat, as soon as satisfactory men could be found. The objections by Walsh and McKellar
and the adjournment of the Senate automatically voided the nominations which can be resubmitted
however when Congress reconvenes
in December.

Attorney-General Mitchell has been asked by President Hoover
to give an opinion on whether members of the Power Commission
may be given recess appointments pending their nomination to the Senate at the next session of Congress. The President expects to make interim appointments for the six members of the Tariff Commission who are to be named, since it is held no provisions of the new tariff law prohibit this.

The Senate Interstate Commerce Committee, to which the three nominations were referred, gave unanimously favorable reports yesterday, after seven of the 19 committee members had considered them for half an hour. Chairman Couzens sought early confirmation and he placed before the seven members the nominee's record as received from the White House.

Immediately after the vote on the London naval treaty, Couzens presented the committee's reports to the Senate. Walsh insisted that consideration be delayed until Senators had had time to make their own investigations.

"This is too grave a matter,"
said Walsh, "to be disposed of in this precipitous manner. The gentlemen may be all right. I have no information that leads me to believe that the appointment of any of them is not wise. But, on the other hand, we have no information whatever concerning who they are, what their relationships or associations may be, and none of them has any reputation, at least beyond the state from which he comes."

McKellar joined in Walsh's objection, stating that Tennessee had many valuable power sites and that as a Senator from Tennessee, he wanted to make his own investigation of the men who would have jurisdiction over them.

Couzens had before him the memoranda from the White House,
but when the objections were made, he did not present them.

These memoranda gave a list of the nominees' indorsements and a brief summary of the work each had done.

Date on Selections.
Draper is a member of the Wyoming State Utilities Board and has the backing of Senator Kendrick (Dem.), Wyoming. Draper is a Republican, as is Williamson.
Garsaud is a Democrat. Before his appointment to the utilities
board Draper was in the livestock business and for the last few years
he has waged a vigorous fight for reduced railroad rates on livestock and agricultural produce.

Williamson had the indorsement
of Senators Dill (Dem.) and Jones
(Rep.) of Washington. For the last 19 years he has lived in Yakima,
Wash., where he has a large practice in water rights law. Before establishing a private office, he was in the Federal reclamation service. He was a member of the Washington water code commission and helped to draft the water rights code adopted in 1917.

In 1924, Garsaud was appointed chief engineer of the Orleans Parish Levee Board, the organization charged with the duty of protecting New Orleans from flood waters of the Mississippi River. As chief engineer, he had supervision of the design for the $27,000 lake front reclamation project, one of the largest of its kind in the country. From the levee board Gar-saud went to the Orleans Parish dock board, a municipal public service administering the works of the port of New Orleans. President Hoover is said to have been impressed by Garsaud's efforts during the 1927 flood.

Subway Worker Electrocuted.
Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, July 22.—Traffic
on the West Side I. R. T. subway was delayed for 20 minutes last night, when a subway employee was electrocuted. The victim, Frank Kerzlik, Yonkers, a car cleaner, was walking along the tracks just north of the station to enter a string of cars waiting to be cleaned, when his watering car touched the third rail.

Two Missing After Launch Sinks.

MEXICO CITY, July 22.—Advices to the newspaper Universal from Tampico report two Americans, names not given, missing after the sinking of the small launch Santa Eulalia, in collision with the sunkon steamship San Damián. All others on the launch were saved.

U. S. AND GERMAN INTERESTS

SETTLE FILM PATENT RIGHTS

Agreement Covers Differences Over
Use of Recording and Reproducing Apparatus.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, July 22.—American and German motion picture and electrical interests today signed an agreement which settles differences
over the use of recording and reproducing patents in the motion picture industry.

The Americans, headed by WILL
H. Hays, started conferring with German sound film interests in June and reached an agreement
July 12 which had to be submitted to the German Ministry of the Interior.

It provided for the complete in-terchangeability of motion pictures,
sound recording and reproducing apparatus between the interests involved.

The agreement was put into the form of a legal document for the complete interchange between American and German interests of patent rights and manufacturing and technical information so that each could enter the other country with pictures.

Provision was made for the licensing of manufacturers of other nationalities so that the result of the contract was to further the improvement of sound motion pictures
throughout the world.

Denison of Illinois. Denison said he believed the purse was stolen
by a white man who jostled him

CHILD HEALTH CONFERENCE

TO BE HELD ON NOV. 19-22

Meeting in Washington, Sponsored by Hoover, to Study Prelin-inary Surveys.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 22.—President Hoover's conference on child health and protection will meet in Washington Nov. 19-22 to study
the preliminary surveys of its twenty-odd subcommittees.

Announcements of the meeting were sent out today by Dr. H. E.
Barnard, director, to the 1100 volunteer educators, technical men and women—all specialists in child welfare work—who a year ago were organized at the instance of the chief executive. Nearly as many more, the director said, will be invited to participate in the conference.

For the last year, since July 29,
1929, when the President's selected Planning Committee of 27 met, surveys and recommendations to determine present progress and future needs have been in the making. In November, Barnard said, they will be ready for presentation to the conference.

"What has long been an incipient movement for larger justice to child life and a changed educational theory is now believed to be a certainty in the present effort of scientists to determine the needs of childhood," Dr. Barnard said.

COLONEL "KILLED" IN 1916

HELD IN PENSION CONSPIRACY

Mexican and Wife Said to Have Collected About $10,000
From Government.

MEXICO CITY, July 22.—Col.
Gabriel Vasquez who, according to war department records was killed in action in 1916, today is in prison charged with conspiring with his wife to pose as dead for the purpose of collecting a pension. The authorities charge that the "widow" collected about $10,000
in which Vasquez shared.

The police said they learned the wife thought her husband had been killed and applied for and received a pension. Five years later Vasquez showed up and claimed half of the pension, which, the charge states, he has been receiving from her since.

DANIEL BOONE DEED AMONG YOUNG ASSETS

It Is First Conveyance of Pioneer's Grant Near Matson, Mo.

Among the securities and records stored in the vault at the office of W. H. Young & Bros., Inc., Trustee F. E. Williams has found at least one document which was not affected in value when the brokerage firm failed last March with a loss to investors of more than $2,000,000.

It is a deed, dated May 6, 1815, signed by Daniel Boone, by which the famous frontiersman conveyed the last of his Spanish land grant in St. Charles County to "one William Cashow for a consideration of $320." The document, now yellow with years, bears a handwritten description of the 161-acre tract, located at what is now known as Matson.

Signature of witnesses on the deed are those of Daniel Morgan Boone, the scout's son, and John B. Calloway, a Justice of the Peace. The document first was exhibited at the St. Louis world's fair and several years later was found in the possession of Mrs. Mary A. Matson of Fort Myers, Fla., descendant of the old Missouri family that founded the town bearing its name. It was later acquired by John M. Reilly, St. Louis real estate dealer.

The Youngs purchased the property and the original deed a few years ago, and announced they intended to establish a golf course and other recreational facilities for their employees' use.

Trustee Williams thinks the deed was purchased for about $75. After he sells the farm, which he estimates should bring about $25,000 above encumbrances of the same amount, he will sell the historical document for a price he anticipates will be considerably more than $75.

ST. LOUIS FIRM PURCHASES TWO INSURANCE COMPANIES

Marquette-Easton Finance Corporation to Merge Newark (N. J.) Organization to St. Louis.

Announcement was made today that the Marquette-Easton Finance Corporation of St. Louis, which owns and operates the Prudential Casualty & Insurance Co. here, had acquired control of the National Guaranty Fire Insurance Co. and the Independent Bonding & Casualty Insurance Co. of Newark, N. J., and both will be moved here.

The finance corporation will operate the three insurance companies as distinct concerns. C. Leonard Snell, president of the finance corporation; William M. Baldwin, secretary-treasurer, and John L. McNulty, counsel, have been elected officers and directors of the two Newark companies. Announcement of the acquisition was made by Snell through the Industrial Bureau.

The National Guaranty company is about five years old and operates in 10 states and Canada. It has $300,000 capital and a surplus of about $800,000. The Independent company has been in operation in Newark about the same length of time, handling casualty insurance in about 15 states. It has $250,000 capital and surplus of about $500,000.

VETERANS URGED TO MAKE APPLICATIONS FOR PENSION

Bureau Manager Says They Will Be Considered in Order in Which They Came In.

World War veterans eligible for disability allowances under the revised compensation law are urged to make early application for relief, as the applications will be reviewed in the order received. E. J. Wieland, local manager of the Veterans' Bureau, announced.

Since the new regulations became effective, July 1, about 1000 veterans have applied to the local office for compensation. Based on the number of disallowed claims under the old law, Wieland estimates that 10,000 applications will be received here. Payment on successful claims will be made from the date of filing. Applicants must have been in the military service of the United States at least 90 days prior to the armistice.

Allowances under the new law vary from $12 to $40 monthly depending on the degree of disability. At present the St. Louis Bureau pays $201.515 monthly to 5152 disabled veterans.

Gary, Ind., More Than 100,000 WASHINGTON, July 22.—Cities of 100,000 or more population in the United States were increased to 94 today with a revised announcement by the Census Bureau of the population of Gary, Ind., at 106,743. This was an increase of 51.9 per cent compared with 55,378, ten years ago. The first announcement by the district supervisor placed its population for 1920 at 97,420. Gary now ranks as 92d city in point of population. The list of cities of the 100,000 class numbered 68 in 1920.

CALLS MEXICAN AGRARIAN RESOLUTION COLLOSSAL FAILURE

Carlton Beals Says 7,000,000 Peasants Have Been Left Unprovided With Means to Live.

MEXICO CITY, July 22.—Carlton Beals, American writer on Latin-American political and economic questions, today pronounced the Mexican Agrarian Revolution "a colossal failure," in an address before the fifth annual session of the Seminar in Mexico, held by the Committee on Cultural Relations with Latin America. Beals declared that 7,000,000 peasants in Mexico had been thrust off the haciendas without having been earning a decent livelihood.

The communal system of land-holding which has been resuscitated in Mexico is a failure, Beals said, "first, because the peasants have never received sufficient or proper lands; second, because they lack the means, equipment and knowledge to cultivate even what they have properly; and finally, because it represents a primitive village system based upon the production of maize and beans for local self-support and therefore runs counter to the national needs and to modern industrial tendencies."

Mexico resides in tropical products, such as sugar-cane, tobacco, coffee, bananas, rubber, henequen, and hardwoods. But these can only be produced efficiently by large plantations with capital and technical equipment and knowledge. The henequen industry is in ruins. The peasants are burning off vast areas of precious hardwoods to plant maize and beans. The Mexican revolution has never frankly faced these problems.

New Kind of Corn Remedy Ends Pain by Double Action

An entirely new principle for the treatment of corns and bunions is winning fame among sufferers. It is called Double Action because it is the one method that does the two things essential to end corn misery. Just touch the corn or bunion with No. 1 remedy to end pain quickly. Then the corn can be removed in a few minutes. Next touch it with No. 2 remedy daily for a few days to keep the corn bed soft and avoid regrowth. Treatments that merely reduce the pain do not accomplish this. Test Dr. Woofter's Double Action Corn and Bunion Remedy on a guarantee of money back if it doesn't end corn and bunion misery.

DROUTH OF RECORD
DURATION IN MANY SECTIONS OF U.S.

Only New England and South Atlantic States
Have Not Been Affected
Weather Expert Declares.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, July 22.—The country today continued to suffer from a drouth which, in some sections, has exceeded records of 40 years standing. Despite relief through showers in some parts of the nation, the drouth is unbroken.
Considerable damage has been done to crops, many cities and towns are suffering from water shortage and heat has taken a big toll of lives.

An analysis of Weather Bureau records by J. B. Kincer, chief of the agricultural division of the United States Weather Bureau, today showed the extent of the long period of dry weather.

Although the seriousness of the situation has become apparent
only recently, Kincer's records disclosed that the drouth actually began last December in an area extending from the lower Mississippi Valley northeastward to Maryland.
Every month has added to the deficiency of rainfall.

Rainfall in Memphis.
The most remarkable figure is that for Memphis, Tenn. The Weather Bureau there reports that rainfall for the last nine weeks has been only 2 per cent of normal. This is said to be an all-time record.

Only two sections of the country
apparently have escaped the drouth. Although there has been dry weather in South Atlantic States, relief came through showers and suffering there was less than in many other places, Kincer said. New England also has escaped the drouth, he said.

While the path of the most serious drouth has moved from the lower Mississippi Valley, through Tennessee, Kentucky, Southeastern Ohio, West Virginia, Virginia and into Maryland, the Middle West
also has suffered.

Comparison With Normal.
The percentage of rainfall compared to normal during the growing season from May 20 to the latest record, July 21, is given by Kincer as follows:

Southwestern Virginia, 23 per cent.
Western West Virginia, 15.
Eastern Kentucky, 25 to 30.
Southern Indiana, Illinois, 25 to 30.
Western Tennessee, 2.
Southern Arkansas and Northern Louisiana, 7 to 13.
Eastern Texas, 23 to 33.
Northern Mississippi, 10 to 17.
Southern Kansas, 10.
Southeastern Nebraska and Southwestern Iowa, under 3 1/2.
Northern Indiana, Illinois, 50 to 75.

Ohio varied, 20 to 50.
Southern Michigan, 50 to 75.
Minnesota, 48 to 53.
Eastern Iowa, 50 to over normal.
North Dakota, 50 to 67.
Eastern Montana, 20 to 45.
South Dakota, under 50.

Record of 40 years' standing:
The earliest Weather Bureau records of all stations within states are broken by the drouth in Virginia, West Virginia and Kentucky.
Maryland, Kincer found, experienced almost as much dry weather
as in 1925 and 1926. The nearest approach to the present dry period
in Virginia, he said, was in 1894.

The severity of the heat is shown by the fact that maximum temperatures ranged from 98 to 104 from Thursday to Sunday and in an area from Nebraska to the Middle Atlantic Coast.

Rain Ends 40-Day Drouth in Missouri, Texas and Kansas.
By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 22.—
An end to 40 days of blazing sun, heat and scorching winds came today in portions of Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas and Missouri. The rainfall was 1.35 inches at Winfield, Kan., and .72 at Missouri points. Eastern showers were recorded yesterday also.

While the relief came too late to save much of the corn and sorghum crops in the Southwest, it was expected by farmers to prove a very real form of agricultural relief. Many sections had had no moisture since June 15.

WIDOW WITH PISTOL ARRESTED.
Mrs. Jack Stroud, 45 years old,
a widow, was arrested on a charge
of carrying a concealed weapon
last night when police reported finding an automatic pistol in her purse after she had been ejected from the home of Mrs. Elsie Ridley, 6229 Waldemar avenue.

Mrs. Stroud and her daughter,
Catherine, roomers at the Ridley home, became involved in a dispute with Mrs. Ridley earlier in the evening and moved their effects. Mrs. Stroud was arrested at the request of Mrs. Ridley, when she returned and renewed the dispute.

Joe Mendt, chimpanzee actor, dies.
COLUMBUS, O., July 22.—Joe Mendt, the chimpanzee that wore clothing, and was said to be the highest paid animal of his kind on the American stage, died last night at the home of his owner, Lou Backenstoe, here. Backenstoe said he recently had rejected an offer of $25,000 for Joe. It was reported here that the chimpanzee was insured for $100,000.

CHICAGO SALOON KEEPER SLAIN; SHOT SIX TIMES

Before He Dies, "Ash Can Pete" Insists Says "They Did a Good Job."

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, July 22.—Peter (Ash Can Pete) Insorio, whose North Elizabeth street saloon formerly was called the Ash Can Club, was shot to death last night.

Six bullets entered his body, but Insorio, 46 years old, lived long enough to be taken to a hospital.
A policeman asked who shot him,
"I don't know," he answered,
"but they did a good job."

No witness has been found to the shooting. An hour earlier Insorio had been sitting in front of the saloon, now called the Idle Hour Club. A search of the saloon disclosed a few nickels in the cash register. There was no liquor there.
Police think Insorio was slain by enemies of the Moran-Allelo gang
with whom, officers said, Insorio
had recently formed a connection.

Dr. Walter M. Cross, owner of the cabin plane in which five members of a Kansas City fishing party were plunge. The insurance was for the

MARKSMANSHIP BADGE
TO BE GIVEN AT C.M.T.C.

Youths Told Primary Secret of Good Firing Is to Squeeze
the Trigger.

Every shot counted today at target practice at Camp Britton, the Citizens' Military Training Camp at Jefferson Barracks, as the youthful soldiers began firing for records.

The C. M. T. C. marksmanship badge will be awarded to new, or basic, students who make a score of 84 out of a possible 15 in the record course, which consists of five shots from a prone and 10 shots from a sitting position at a range of 200 yards. Advance students must score 84 out of 100
shots to receive a sharpshooter badge or 76 out of 100 for a marksmanship badge.

Results of the preliminary firing yesterday indicated an unusually large number of youth will qualify for badges today. Officers informed them before going on the range that rifle firing is a mechanical operation "which anyone

POPCORN POPPED ON STALK
Scientists Think Disease Caused Unusual Occurrence.
By the Associated Press.
QUITMAN, Ga., July 22.—The crackling sound in Mrs. Claude Phillips' garden patch is causing scientists to wonder. Mrs. Phillips thought it was her popcorn popping on the stalk. Plant experts didn't agree, but the corn was popped. That much is authenticated.

United States Department of Agriculture plant specialists, however, pointed out that popcorn has to be thoroughly dried and seasoned before it will pop over a fire. The plant is comparatively rare in this section and the Department of Agriculture men were not thoroughly acquainted with all its peculiarities, but said they had a vague recollection of a disease that causes the corn to appear to have popped in the ear.

SENATORS URGE LEGGE TO BOOST WHEAT PRICE

Representatives of Four States Call on Farm Board Chairman.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 22.—Chairman Legge's statement that criticism of the Farm Board's wheat policy is mostly "political bunk" has not stilled demands that the board take action to increase the price of grain.

Senators from four wheat growing states, led by Capper of Kansas, called on him today to urge that the board broaden its present program, which is chiefly centered on crop reduction. Pine of Oklahoma, Allen of Kansas, Howell of Nebraska and McMaster of South Dakota accompanied Capper.

After the conference Capper said the group had emphasized the need for action to "aid the present critical situation." They expressed the hope, he added, that something be done "to give the farmer a better price while the wheat is still in his hands and before it gets into the hands of speculators."

Capper again presented his plan for the purchase of 100,000,000 bushels of wheat by board agencies. Legge had previously disapproved this suggestion, saying the board could do little unless the farmer aided in reducing the surplus.

Capper said the Government could take some loss in purchasing the wheat. The possibility that it could be sold at low prices or even given to China or India, Capper added, was suggested to the chairman. Capper said the Senators had "a most sympathetic discussion" with Legge. The chairman differed "with us on the proposition that the Farm Board, through its Stabilization Corporation, should go on the market at this time," he added.

The Senators said they did not discuss acreage reduction proposals. Legge, however, Capper said, expressed the opinion that if it became known that farmers were reducing acreage it would have a beneficial effect on wheat prices.

In a statement published today, Legge said he was fighting in open and not hiding behind President Hoover. He added he would make a report to the chief executive soon on the progress of the board's campaign for a reduced wheat acreage.

"The Farm Board," he said, "was created to assist the farmer and not for politics. The farmer's problem is an economic one that will never be solved by any political remedies."

"The President has not interfered with our program and we have gone ahead sawing wood. I expect to report to him soon on the acreage reduction campaign, but I am not hiding behind his skirts."

Legge went on to say he was prepared to tell Mr. Hoover he expected co-operation in the acreage reduction program from the farmers of every state in the winter wheat belt. He described the purpose of the campaign as to show the farmer he must reduce production or accept a lower price for his wheat.

After terming the opposition to the board's policies "political bunk" Legge said: "Present and future orations written by the Democratic National Committee and fathered by various orators to broadcast the alleged failure of the Farm Board are only more of the same kind of political bunk by virtue of which the farmer has arrived at his present position."

He said the opposition of Gov. Reed of Kansas was "wholly political" and applied the same description to criticism of the board for not buying and storing large amounts of the 1930 wheat crop.

C. B. Dorman, another member of the Farm Board, said yesterday that retail prices of beef in New York City should be considerably lower on the basis of wholesale beef and live cattle prices.

Dorman, who recently said retail meat prices were not showing the reduction they should in view of wholesale cuts and thereby obtained a nation-wide reduction in beef prices, said New York consumers were entitled to a further price cut. Retail prices there, he said, have been reduced only 2 cents to 6 cents a pound on the cheaper grades, while other large cities showed cuts of 12 cents and 11 cents.

The two women, Mrs. John W. Ford, Louisville, Ky., arrested here, and Mrs. Paul Webster, her daughter, arrested at Kansas City, Mo., are accused of dealing with Charles C. Drake, a former prison guard arrested Thursday night. Paul Webster, husband of the woman, is a prison inmate.

Other persons arrested include Dr. Jennie Van Epps, Tonganoxie (Kan.) physician; George Lamm, Fred Bolton and Otto Reimer, described by officers as patients at her hospital, and Eugene Davis, a resident at the United States Soldiers' Home at Leavenworth.

OSSEVATORE ROMANO OPPOSES METHODISTS' VISIT TO ITALY

Paper Frequently Used for Vatican Notice Calls It "Mistaken Pilgrimage."

VATICAN CITY, July 22.—Ossevatore Romano, in an editorial, calls the forthcoming pilgrimage of American Methodists to Italy aboard the Steamship Conte Grande, which left New York Saturday, a "mistaken pilgrimage."

The paper, which frequently is used by the Vatican for official notices, commends La Tribuna, which published an editorial Saturday criticizing the pilgrimage.

Ossevatore Romano suggests that instead of visiting Italy, "where every milestone speaks of Catholic triumphs," the pilgrims should have decided to visit places in Germany and Switzerland where Protestant leaders lived.

ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH
MAN WHO KILLED DAUGHTER TO "END PAIN" HELD INSANE
 By the Associated Press.
 WALTON, N. Y., July 22.—Declared insane by a commission of alienists who examined him yesterday, Andrew Beers, 79-year-old father of his daughter, was committed to the Binghamton State Hospital today for an indefinite period by County Judge Andrew J.
 McNaught.
 Beers killed his mentally-bligh-

ed daughter, Frances, 37, because, as he voluntarily told police,
 he could not bear to see her suffer
 in illness and feared she might fall into unkind hands after his death.
 After unsuccessful use of poison in her food, he drove an ice pick into her head, using a wrench as a hammer. He then gave himself up.
 Because his devotion to his daughter was well known here,
 most townspeople accepted his statement as true and his neighbors engaged counsel for him.

SOVIET AGENCY
HEAD THREATENED
WITH CONTEMPT
 President of Amtorg Trading Corporation Refuses to Answer the House Committee's Questions.
 By the Associated Press.
 NEW YORK, July 22.—Peter A. Bogdanov, president and chairman of the Amtorg Trading Corporation, official purchasing agency for the Soviet Government, was threatened with contempt today for refusing to answer questions before the special congressional committee investigating Communist activities in the United States.
 Bogdanov was first asked about Amtorg's affiliations with the Soviet Government, and acknowledged that there was soviet direction of the American corporation through various Russian trade associations.
 Chairman Hamilton Fish of the committee asked:
 "Doesn't every Communist have to help carry out the program of the party?" Bogdanov agreed that this was so.
 "And doesn't the party program
 call for a social revolution and the dictatorship of the proletariat?"
 Fish asked. "Yes," said Bogdanov.
 "This means," Fish continued,
 "that the capitalistic system must be destroyed by force?"
 "I am prohibited from discussing politics," Bogdanov objected, adding that the soviet government forbade all persons working in other countries from discussion of politics.
 Chairman Fish said that his committee did not recognize the authority of the soviet government, but Bogdanov still declined to answer on the grounds that trade relations between America and Russia might be jeopardized.
 At this point Representative John Nelson of Maine interrupted the questioning to say that the committee had authorization from Congress to question witnesses and to suggest that if Bogdanov continued to decline to answer, he be declared in contempt of the committee.
 After a hurried conference with his attorneys, Bogdanov agreed to answer questions. Chairman Fish
 then asked again if the communist program did not call for annihilation of capitalist governments. Bogdanov replied that he believed that it called for it to be "replaced."
 Bogdanov began testimony without taking the regulation oath that he would tell the truth. Instead he was permitted merely to affirm that he would tell the truth when he objected to being sworn on the ground that "the mention of God in the formula of the oath would mean no added compulsion to tell the truth."
 The committee yesterday visited Camp Nitgedalget, which means
 "Don't Worry," about three miles south of Newburgh, and Camp Unity, near Beacon, N. Y.
 A witness had described the camps as places where children of the Gastonia (N. C.) textile strikers were being taught to salute the Red flag.
 Boos, jeers and catcalls greeted the Congressmen and their escort of state police and detectives at both camps.
 At Camp Nitgedalget the visit was made the subject of an impromptu mass meeting of about 300 radical campers attired in bathing suits, who were waiting for dinner.
 Jack Ferilla, a red-headed young Communist, harangued the committee in behalf of his comrades.
 He said:
 "This meeting is called as a protest against the Fascist fishing committee. I would like to say to the committee that they are here by suffrance. They are on private property. They ought to understand this for they are supposed to have respect for private property."
 Representative Ballick of the committee described many of the Red campers as being "clad in climate and clothed in sunshine."

THE MESSAGE MUST GO THROUGH

She's Trained Nurse for ten thousand Telephones

A CLINIC for sick telephones!
 Before Janet Anderson's desk stretches the busy length of the testboard. Men are working there at its great dials, its neat rows of keys and plugs. They are specialists at finding what is wrong with a telephone in trouble, at seeing that it is corrected promptly.

And Janet is the trained nurse who helps them.

Within reach of her trim young arms, 10,000 cards are ranged row upon row in shallow boxes. Each card gives the health history of a telephone... tells when it was installed, lists any ailments that may have overtaken it.

As the men at the testboard throw their keys, watch intently the readings of the big dials, Janet knows that some of these telephones are in trouble!

Now one of the men turns, calls a number to her.

Brown eyes flash to the shallow box... a deft hand whips out the "health chart" of this telephone... Janet leans forward, hands it to him.

Head alert, the band of her receiver clasping soft, brown hair, Janet does not know what urgent messages of sickness and sorrow, of life and happiness, are being stifled behind that telephone in trouble. She does not know what other messages, from the surging waves of words that ebb and flow along the telephone wires, are being beaten back from it, unanswered.

And Janet is the trained nurse who helps them.

But within a moment, she knows, highly sensitive instruments will test and measure... diagnose its case. Shortly, a busy repairman will be hurrying toward it with the skilled knowledge necessary to cure its ailments.

So, to Janet, at her desk in the quiet corner of the telephone office, the little warning lamps on the testboard are like the flashing signals in a hospital ward.

And like a trained nurse at a hospital desk, she keeps with scrupulous care her file of "health charts"... sees that each is ready to set in motion the full machinery of the telephone company's repair service.

Thus, like hundreds of other girls in "Repair Service" everywhere, she watches the health of thousands of telephones, in order that over any one of them, at any time, you may talk to anyone, almost anywhere. Southwest-ern Bell Telephone Company.

Double Whipped MAYONNAISE

mixed to a priceless recipe from France... then beaten in a unique way for utter deliciousness of flavor!!

THERE'S new zest for your salads in this unique mayonnaise. It brings glorious new flavor, delicate new creaminess, to even a simple hearts-of-lettuce!
 The secret lies in a priceless old recipe from France... and in our exclusive method of beating.
 First, the Hellmann chefs whip their mayonnaise in the time honored way... thoroughly, exactly. And then they whip it completely again to a perfect harmony of flavor.
 The result is a subtle piquancy, a velvet smoothness, that could never be achieved in any other way. How that old French chef who wrote the recipe would marvel at it today!
 Carefully selected ingredients also play an important part in developing this remarkable mayonnaise. Breakfast eggs, a secret blend of spices, pure vinegar, and selected salad oils. These ingredients cost us more, of course, but the added deliciousness they give makes them more than worth the price we pay.

Today... tonight try Hellmann's Mayonnaise on your favorite salad. Taste the new flavor it brings. Note the enthusiastic comments of your family and friends!

And remember! With it you can make a dozen different salad dressings... easily, quickly, without risk.

It's waiting for you now at your grocer's. Get your jar today, and please, if you are delighted, be good enough to tell your friends. www.hellmann.com

Cardinal Pitcher Fined $100 for Talking Back to His Manager

FLINT RHEM.

NEW YORK, July 22.—ABBY STREET, manager of the Cardinals, announced last night that he had fined Flint Rhem $100 for insubordinate language after he had been reprimanded for being put out of Sunday's ball game. Street specified that Rhem had not broken any training rules.

Springfield Legion Team Crushes U. City, 13 to 1

The Goad-Ballinger baseball team of Springfield, Mo., trampled over the University City Legion Juniors by a score of 13 to 1, at Sportsman's Park today, to gain the right to play the winner of the Kansas City district for the state title at Kansas City in the first week of August.

University City's poor play behind a pitcher who was weakened from hurling too many ball games recently, and a touch of over confidence, accounted for the overwhelming defeat.

Mark Frye, the Springfield pitcher, allowed only four hits, but one of which was good for an extra base. Kresman made a double in the second frame, sending home Harlan, who reached base on Lamb's fumble. Frye passed eight and fanned four batters.

Springfield in its turn at bat scored twice. Mattick was passed and Frye was cheated out of a homer by Kresman's running catch. Lamb hit hard to Herbert, and then both Mattick and Lamb crossed the plate when Ray hit down the left field baseline.

Springfield's Big inning. The biggest inning for Springfield was the fourth. Ray was forced by Groth. Twigg singled to left and Alton did the same. Groth scored. Bessley hit to Neidermiller, who threw to McConnell to catch Twigg going home. McConnell failed to touch Twigg because he thought the runner was forced.

Frye hit to short, scoring Alton and Bessley. The only homer of the game was made when Lamb socked the ball to deep center field. Frye got in on the hit.

In the fifth, Ralph Twigg of Springfield made a clean safety to left. He advanced to third when Harlan threw wild in trying to catch him napping. He scored on Bessley's hit.

University City had a good chance to score in the sixth. Norman Chenoweth walked, and went to second when Neidermiller also was passed. Another walk pushed Chenoweth to third. Partell then hit a high fly to left field and it appeared Chenoweth could have scored after the catch, had he not unwisely advanced up the base line before the catch.

Springfield counted four runs in the seventh. The Senators failed to score.

By the Associated Press.
MACKINAC ISLAND, Mich., July 22.—The "Siren" of the Chicago Yacht Club won the twenty-third annual yacht race from Chicago to Mackinac Island today, taking the title for the fourth time. The Milwaukee Yacht Club's "Siren" entered. "Vagabond," was first to cross the line at the end of the 231-mile cruise, but had to yield to the Siren because of an allowance of three hours and 21 minutes.

Princess of the Jackson Park Club of Chicago took second. Other races awaited determination by the judges after the fleet is all in. The Siren arrived at 7 a. m. today.

Alexander Is Offered Job by Galesburg Club

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
GALESBURG, Ill., July 22.—An invitation to pitch the remainder of the season with a team here where he made his debut in organized baseball 20 years ago, was wired today to Grever Cleveland Alexander.

The Galesburg Independents among whose supporters "Alex" has many friends from the days when he picked his first league ball, is seeking Alexander's services, now that he has been released by the Dallas club of the Texas League.

Alex came here from his home in St. Paul, Neb., to join the Galesburg club of the Old Illinois Missouri League when he was 22 years old. His salary was $100 a month. In a short time he had become the hero of the league and his speedy, fast curving ball was feared by all opposing batters.

Major league scouts heard of his phenomenal pitching and came to watch him perform. Before they arrived he had a bad break of luck that almost ended his pitching days, when he was hit on the head by a ball while running the bases. The crack left him with his eyes crossed. The scouts talked to him on his hospital cot and "Bibi" Watkins of the Indianapolis club took a chance and bought him for $150, his eyes improved and his rise to fame from then on is baseball history.

Last year Alexander renewed his old friendships when he came here with the St. Louis Cardinals to have an exhibition game with the Indians. Harold Wicall, manager of the Indians, which is one of the leading semi-pro clubs in Illinois, said the wire to Alex today asked him to set his own terms to return here. The local manager believes Alex will accept because of the large number of staunch personal friends he has in this section.

CANZONERI DEFEATS BASS; WILL CLAIM JUNIOR LIGHTWEIGHT CROWN

TITLE-HOLDER TAKES ONLY 3 ROUNDS FROM GOTHAM RIVAL

LAST NIGHT'S FIGHTS

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA.—Tony Canzoneri, New York, outpointed Benny Bass, Philadelphia, (10); Hay Miller, Chicago, knocked out Frankie Hayes, Philadelphia, (1).

NEW YORK.—Ted Sandwina, Sioux City, Ia., and Al Walker, New York, drew, (10); Freddie Hieber, North Bergen, N. J., outpointed Eddie Murdoch, Tulsa, Ok., (10).

PEORIA, Ill.—Eddie Shee, Chicago, knocked out Ray McIntire, Los Angeles, (1).

LOUISVILLE.—Al Friedman, Boston, outpointed Paul Swiderski, Syracuse, N. Y., (10).

LOS ANGELES.—Billy Townsend, Vancouver, knocked out Joey Medill, Chicago, (1).

PHILADELPHIA July 22.—Tony Canzoneri, rugged New Yorker, finds Benny Bass as easy to conquer as a junior lightweight as he did as a featherweight.

Three years ago Canzoneri won the featherweight crown from Bass and last night he gave the Philadelphia, who is recognized in many states as junior lightweight champion, one of the worst beatings of his career in a 10-round bout at the Phillies ball park.

Although the match had been arranged as a non-title bout, it was reported that Canzoneri would claim the championship. When they weighed in at 2 p. m. yesterday before the State Athletic Commission Bass weighed 125 1/2, while Canzoneri scaled 128 1/2, only a quarter of a pound below the junior lightweight limit.

Due to the wording of the contract, which stipulated that the New Yorker must weigh more than 130, Frank Wiener, chairman of the commission, ordered Tony to go out and eat. When he returned he weighed 131 1/2. Reports said that Canzoneri would claim the title because he was under the official lightweight limit at the official weighing-in time.

Bass won only three rounds, and these by narrow margins. Canzoneri took five and two were even. Benny encountered an aggressive foe, who flailed him at every turn. Early in the bout Tony opened a cut over Bass' right eye and he made this a target for his left thereafter.

Bass' timing and judgment of distance were poor and about the only thing he showed was a sturdy severe hammering at close quarters. He did rock Canzoneri once with a terrific right, but the New Yorker came back strong.

The bout was marked by frequent clinching and the crowd yelled a number of times for more action.

HONOLULU BOXER IN ST. LOUIS FOR BOUTS
A sun tanned, angular young man whose hands are big and bony and his clothes shabby, will be at the ringside tomorrow night hoping that one of the principals fails to show up. Bert Quinn, the angular young man, blew into town yesterday looking for action in the ring. He must have prospects because Henry M. Hickey, who admits he was the "Pride of Oakland" in the good old days, insists on managing him. Hickey, too, is running short of party clothes and if the pair don't get a fight or two pretty soon the ring will lose an embryo champion.

Quinn's home is in Honolulu. He came to the States some months ago looking for a chance to make some money in the ring. He is 19 years old, weighs 172 pounds. His record, which has not been verified, includes 13 knockouts, one draw, two bouts lost via knockouts and two lost on decisions.

REFORM MAYOR

Associated Press.
DETROIT, Mich., July 22. —
Charles Bowles, elected last year on a reform platform, is believed today with an action that he "tolerated lawlessness" as one of the charges.
While Mayor Bowles was in Kentucky last May 17, attending the Kentucky Derby, his Police Commissioner, Harold H. Emmons, led raids on race betting establishments in which nearly 300 arrests were made. The Mayor responded to Detroit and fired Em-mons, thereby precipitating the remove which culminated today
in a special election to decide whether Mayor Bowles shall continue in office.

Friends of the Mayor have declined that Commissioner Emmons
made the central argument in the recall of Mayor Bowles. Within a few days recall petitions were being circulated. They contained charges that the Mayor charged Police Commissioner Emmons for enforcing gambling laws while Bowles was out of the city, "tolerated violation of laws
by law enforcing agencies and at other charges."

More than 110,000 signatures
were obtained for the recall petition, and more than the necessary 10,000 were declared valid by the Recall Commission. The Michigan Supreme Court ruled that the election must be held. The election campaign began two weeks after the Mayor's supporters exhausted all means of preventing the vote.

The campaign, conducted almost entirely by addresses over local radio stations, has been the most intense and bitter ever fought here.
Herbert Oakman, aged millionaire philanthropist and supporter of Bowles
in the election last fall, has been leader in the present attack on Mayor John Gillespie, politically an enemy of Oakman in elections
10 and 20 years ago, whose appointment as Commissioner of Public Works is said to have been Oakman's gift to the Mayor, and been generalissimo of the Mayor's forces.

Mayor Attacks Newspaper.
Recall sponsors repeatedly argued that "ministerial influences" controlled the Mayor and urged a recall as the only method of restoring good government.
Mayor Bowles declared that the recall move is a "conspiracy led by the Detroit News and Free Press." He said today's vote would decide "whether the Press or the people shall rule."

Election officials predicted that Mayor Bowles would be heavy, basing their prediction on the unusually large number of requests for early voters' ballots. A simple majority of the votes cast is required to decide the issue.
If Mayor Bowles is recalled, another election to choose his successor must be held within 45 days,
with the Mayor automatically a candidate. The Mayor would remain in office until his successor is named.

What the Ballot Says.
On the ballot, the following reasons for demanding the recall are listed:

He has tolerated lawlessness by refusing to enforce agencies. Delegated to Frank Doherty, an attorney financially interested in claims against the street railway, control of the street railway's claims department. Gave Gillespie, professional lobbyist and bondsman, control of Detroit's public works programs with power to deal with con-

holder increased 20 cents per yard

Revolves Around Mooney Case,
Once Dead But Now Alive AgainWitness Who Says He Perjured Self in Identifications at Trial Tells His Story to Gov. Young.By the Associated Press.
SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., July 22.—
Gov. C. C. Young today heard
John MacDonald repudiate testimony which aided in sending Warren
K. Billings and Thomas J.
Mooney to prison for the 1916 preparedness day bombing in San Francisco. MacDonald, who came from Baltimore to retract his identifications of Mooney and Billings
at their trial, went into conference with the Governor this morning.
He hopes to help Mooney and Billings obtain pardons.Mrs. Rena Mooney, wife of Mooney, collapsed when she entered the ante-chamber of the Governor's office and encountered MacDonald.At the close of the conference
the Governor told MacDonald: "It's now between you and the court."
This was taken as indication the Governor would do nothing more until Justices of the California
Supreme Court, acting as an advisory board, could act on the petition of Billings for a recommendation
for pardon.The Governor said he told Mac-Donald he had conferred with Supreme Court members and they were "prepared to go fully into the testimony of MacDonald, as well as other matters appertaining thereto."Special to the Post-Dispatch.
SAN FRANCISCO, July 22.—It has been 14 years to the week since 10 San Franciscans were killed and 40 wounded in a bomb explosion
during a preparedness day parade.
Yet the cases of the two convicted perpetrators of the outrage still are the most dangerous explosives in California politics. Thomas J.
Mooney and Warren K. Billings, radical labor leaders of the pre-war years, are serving life terms in California prisons, found guilty of murdering the bombing victims.
Their pardon applications and their insistence that they were convicted on "framed" and fraudulent testimony are outstanding elements in the tightest three-cornered gubernatorial race California has seen in years.To Gov. Clement C. Young, candidate for a Republican nomination equivalent to election, the distressing feature of the situation is that two weeks ago, as a campaign hazard, the Mooney-Billings case appeared permanently deflated.
Young came into office four years ago on a specific pledge to give Mooney's declarations of innocence and pardon plea consideration, and with the understanding that the case of Billings, as the California law requires of twice-convicted felons, might be reviewed by the State Supreme Court.Billings' Appeal Sought.
Young took until November of last year to study the Mooney case documents and then pressure was brought to bear to have Billings
make a clemency appeal to the Supreme Court so that the judi-ciary's recommendations could be had before Young, as Governor,
made up his mind what to do about pardoning Mooney.Less than three weeks ago, so far as political involvements were concerned, this method of procedure appeared to have worked successfully. The Supreme Court refused to indorse Billings' application for clemency. Asserting that it believed his conviction just and his guilt established. Gov.
Young and his advisory pardon board were consequently enabled to follow the Supreme Court's reasoning in denying a pardon to Mooney. The State's highest judicial authority had spoken, the Governor had observed its recommendations, Mooney and Billings
were settled in their cells for life,
and their cases were technically
"out of politics."But the Supreme Court, in its reasoning on Billings' guilt, had laid the chief emphasis on the trial testimony of John MacDonald, a former San Francisco waiter. Mac-Donald identified Mooney and Billings as the men he saw placing a bomb at the scene of the crime but subsequently, in 1921, had filed an affidavit repudiating his testimony
as deliberate perjury. The Court testimony bore internal testimony of "truth and sincerity" while his repudiation affidavit appeared "a tissue of falsehoods."

Young, in his attempt to let the Mooney pardon working organizations down gently while denying them their chief objective, announced that if MacDonald should ever be found he might shed on the case.MacDonald was supposed to be dead by Young's advisers and even by leaders of the pardon-working organizations.

Then three days after Young's refusal of clemency to Mooney was announced, the ex-waiter turned up in Baltimore, repeating his repudiation testimony more strongly than ever. Because of Young's virtual pledge to ascertain the validity of MacDonald's repudiation,
the Mooney case was now back in politics in a more, troublesome
form than before.Thousands of Votes at Stake.
Thousands of votes are obviously to be won or lost by Mooney-Billings pardon decisions, whichever way they go. By shifting a part of the responsibility to the Supreme Court, the sting of the Mooney pardon rejection early in the month had been as far as possible softened for the pro-Mooney following by Young. On the other hand, anything like proof of the genuineness of MacDonald's repudiation, which might compel the quick release of Mooney and Billings, would lose the Governor
thousands of votes of ultra-conservative Californians convinced that the two prisoners are guilty and whether guilty or not, that they ought to be confined as dangerous agitators.Consequently, the first strictly political necessity for a renomination candidate would be to keep both the pro-Mooney and the anti-Mooney groups in the dark and avoid a showdown on the Mac-Donald repudiation which might produce, or even point to a definite pardon decision before the Republican primaries of Aug. 26.Action by the Governor.
This seemed feasible as long as MacDonald remained in Baltimore, and Gov. Young, by suggesting various written agreements
about the repudiating witness' California appearance to be negotiated by mail, evidently attempted to arrange it.But the aged ex-waiter picked as his legal representatives a reputable corporation attorneys' firm in Baltimore with no interest in West Coast gubernatorial campaigns and departed with two of the firm members for San Francisco almost at once. One of the lawyers, Charles Ruzicka, had known MacDonald for six years as night watchman in his apartment
house and was motivated by respect for his client's evident sincerity and determination to see that he received fair treatment, uncomplicated by California politics.Since their arrival in San Francisco Sunday night, official tactics
in California have been more than ever manifestly directed toward postponing a showdown on the MacDonald repudiation at virtually all costs.Reached by telephone after Ruzicka's insistent efforts, Gov.
Young at first pleaded a long list
of political and other engagements
as an excuse for delaying an appointment with MacDonald and his lawyers. Even when practically ultimatumed into receiving them today, Young refused Ruzicka and his associate, Hilary Gans, consent to a definite hour for the appointment."Informal" Reception.
Today he announced after studying "procedure methods" in his Sacramento office, that he had "no engagement with the Baltimoreans and would only receive them 'informally' in the regular order of office visitors."The Baltimoreans, consequently, took their places on Young's San Francisco office doorstep.
Meanwhile the Supreme Court announced that, owing to Mac-Donald's visit, it would grant a rehearing of Billings' pardon application, but that "when and how" Mac-Donald's repudiation testimony should be received it could not decide as yet.No steps have been taken by Liberated Province.By the Associated Press.

COBLENZ, Germany, July 22.—
President von Hindenburg, continuing his journey through the liberated Rhineland, today traversed
the most romantic section of the Rhine by steamer. Starting from Eltville for Coblenz, he passed
many points famous in the legends
of the Rhine, especially the Lor-lei Rock and Mouse Tower near Bingen.Church bells rang and crowds cheered on both banks as the presidential steamer passed. At Coblenz, the former headquarters of the American expeditionary force, Von Hindenburg landed at the famous German corner, where the Moselle flows into the Rhine and where a gigantic statue of Emperor William I stands.
Cannon from the Fortress of Ehrenbreitstein on the opposite bank fired a salute as the townsfolk cheered the venerable statesman. The President then drove to the City Hall. Brilliant fireworks and the illumination of Ehrenbreit-stein are to complete the festivities tonight.

WASHINGTON, July 22.—In the mountainous reaches of the Prov-

roads are little more than trails, is a red American-made automobile.
Its owner being the wealthy Sultan of the Province.Surrounded by his many servants, the Sultan went to Addis Ababa, capital of Abyssinia. In a showroom of an automobile agency was an American car painted in green, the holy color of the Moslems. The Sultan blew the horn and particularly admired the color.
Across the street was a rival agency, whose cars were painted a bright red. The Sultan pondered his problem and chose the red car.
A report to the State Department
from the American Legation in Addis Ababa said that in addition to the $3600 paid for the car, the Sultan paid an American taxi driver $24 to take the car to his spending many thousands of dol-

BOMBAY, July 22.—Sir Tej Ba-

dian leaders, left this afternoon for Poona to visit Mahatma Gandhi in his quarters at Yeroda jail in an effort to effect a conclusion of his civil disobedience campaign.
Gandhi's civil resistance volunteers, who began with salt raids and followed with boycotting of British goods, now are renewing activity against native liquor.Women disciples of Gandhi have done some picketing of liquor and foreign cloth shops since the movement opened March 12, but yesterday they showed their force at an auction here for the sale of saloon licenses. The sale had been well advertised and was held at the Town Hall, yet so successful was the women's campaign that no bids were offered for the 30 licenses.Long before time for the auction to call for bids, women headed by Mrs. Hansa Metha, president of the Bombay Provincial Congress Committee, assembled before the entrance to the hall.
The police loaded them into prison wagons and took them to the station. Another group stepped up and as speedily was carried away.
Just as the auction closed others appeared for duty. Forty-six were arrested. All were released after the sale closed.The favorite native drink is toddy, derived from the sap of the beverage that the Nationalists have municipal palms henceforth should not be leased for production of the drink. This will mean an annual loss of some $19,000 in gold for the city revenues, as about 40,000

toddy palms in the corporation limits heretofore have been leased.Moslems Say Simon Report Has

LONDON, July 22.—The continued increase of unemployment
in Great Britain is viewed with so much apprehension with respect to the approaching winter that Prime Minister MacDonald has taken personal charge of a new attempt to offset the evil.Not since 1922 has the present total of 1,800,000 unemployed persons been surpassed. Then it was 1,900,000 but that was at a time when England was in the business slump which followed the postwar boom. The figure of 1922 also included the aftermath of several labor disputes, the most serious of which was the coal strike.There is some indication that the Labor Government is still dal-ying with the proposal to pension
the old workers, although Philip Snowden has barred any further expenditures of this sort.The Prime Minister, who is now free of his preoccupations with the London naval conference, has decided to apply all his energies to the unemployment problem, relieving Lord Privy Seal J. H. Thomas of the thankless task he has held the past year.MacDonald has begun as chairman of a cabinet committee which includes all ministers in charge of departments concerned in any way with investigations and formulation of remedial measures with respect to unemployment.This means in effect the concentration of all the Government's resources. Another step taken is the temporary withdrawal from their ordinary duties of a group of distinguished civil service employees to help the Government in its effort. This group, constituted as a committee of officials, has Sir John Anderson, permanent Secretary of the Home Office, as chairman. The Cabinet's economic adviser also has been attached to the officials' committee.This new general staff is already waging war on unemployment and the Government hopes that it may have some concrete results before winter arrives.

PEMISCOT SECOND IN RATE OF GAIN Carter Has Smallest Population With Total of 5495—31 Divisions Gained While 83 Lost.

St. Louis County, whose population more than doubled in the last decade, led the counties of Missouri in growth in the decade, its percentage of increase having been 109 per cent, an Associated Press communication shows. However, it still ranked second in size among Missouri counties, Jackson leading the list because it contains Kansas City.

St. Louis, an independent city, of course, is the largest in the state.

Day by Day in Europe

By O. O. McIntyre

LONDON. JUST as the dapper little Parisienne with his little white shirt and enameled white club amuses the visitor, so does the London cab and bus driver. There is no free-wheeling among them and their wells of sarcasm are deep and acrid. They fairly spit venom.

Each is a road hog in a city of narrow streets. They mock and abuse each other and exchange unprintable epithets. They have no wit and their lives seem a perpetual growl. This morning I drove to Fleet street my driver locked horns verbally with a bus Juhu.

The air turned sulphuric blue. He nearly unhinged my neck dropping behind the busman and jockeying in front of him to unloose a flood of billingsgate. His parting shot as he swung dizzily around a corner on two wheels was: "Your old woman, she was owing to the gizzard again last night." Another way of saying the busman's wife was drunk.

The London Bobby, however, is a totally different species. He is more than a policeman. He is a guide, a counsellor and friend. He is especially considerate toward the provincial and the foreigner. Address one of them as "Inspector" and the flattery will make him your slave.

The chin-strapped Bobby breathes law and order—the triumph of the uniform. If he rebukes you he is humble. I know from experience. One time here when I was a bit more of a smartie than now I was rebuked by a Bobby. He cured me of sucking eggs from then to now.

London, as you know, is a sartorial heaven for the male shopper. He always strikes out for the Burlington Arcade to see the half-dressery, shirt, hat and boot shops. Many articles are priced in dollars—such as "$5.07 approx."

The first time England has ever howled or even nodded toward the dollar.

The most masculine of thoroughfares are Savile Row, St. James' street and Pall Mall. The predominant type of well-dressed Londoner is habited of mornings in black coat, striped trousers, black derby at the proper angle, white shirt with stiff collar and blue tie and, of course, spatted and monocled.

FOR the lover of parks, London is a mecca, distinguished by scenic naturalness. There are dull thickets spangled with bright flowers, clumps of sudden woods, silver rivulets and coy paths. They hug the past with wagon-loads of dog carts and other accessories of the Victorian era. In one today I saw a red-coated hunter on a caroling mount—like a rare old print. It is perhaps because London is so gray and gloomy the parks stir the imagination. Anyway they seem more inspiring and vivid here than almost any other place I've ever been.

BERKELEY SQUARE has been storied recently by the successful play of that name in New York. I passed through it this afternoon—a small sunless patch flooded with ancient quiet and obedient sobriety. At No. 11, Horace Walpole once lived. "Auld Robin Gray" was written at No. 21 and Clive ended his life at No. 45 with poison. If memory serves, Of many streets running off Berkeley is Charles and at No. 42 once lived the dandiacal immortal Beau Brummell. Passing his abode I saw the doorway of Jimmy Walker. And adjusted my bright orange cravat.

I STEPPED into one of the ancient pubs, featuring old ale and a sanded floor for a lemonade—and it was served piping hot. The pretty bar maid, who did not look unlike Billie Burke, fell into talking about America. She wanted to know all about Al Capone.

ONE of the noticeable changes here is in drug stores. They used to be staid apothecaries but have gone completely American chain store. The old chemist's window display has given way to safety razors, rubber dolls, lead pencils and cut-rate books. The soda fountain in one offered a "Greta Garbo sundae."

AND along Piccadilly I ran across something I had never seen before—a condiment shop. Its window was a crazy quilt of exotic and peppery delicacies from every corner of the civilized world. "Hot stuff," I remarked to my wife, which is the absolute low record for wheeze whittling on this excursion. But a fellow has to get off something now and then.

BOND street is London's Fifth avenue and rue de la Paix. Tripping along it this afternoon was Anna May Wong, the Chinese cinema cutie looking very princesse du pays de porcelaine—I just can't shake off my French. It just occurs to me a Frenchman doesn't speak his language. He gorges it. (Copyright, 1930.)

'MAYTIME' BLOSSOMS AGAIN IN THE PARK

By H. H. NEMEYER. THE best of all Sigmund Romberg's operettas, the lovely "Maytime," was never seen to better advantage in St. Louis than it was last night when the Municipal Opera Company, with an augmented cast, presented it in a beautiful setting, on the stage in Forest Park. For a time rain threatened to interfere with the opening performance and cut heavily into the size of the audience, but once under way, the musical drama was done without interruption.

All of the regular Municipal favorites, with the exception of Jack Sheehan, took part in the performance. Guy Robertson and Margaret Carlisle had the leading roles of Dick Wayne and Otilie; Leonard Ceely, in two brief appearances, really scored the hit of the evening, and among the newcomers to the cast, brought here for the occasion, Charles Purcell was delightful as the much-married Matthew Van Zandt.

"Maytime" has been done many times in St. Louis and has always been a pronounced favorite with theater-goers here, as elsewhere. The piece is entirely familiar and the story of the operetta—actually it is a drama with music which

MISS THERESA HALLER'S WILL OPENED BEFORE FUNERAL

The will of Miss Theresa H. Haller, 3130 Lemp avenue, who died Sunday, was filed in Probate Court yesterday in compliance with her request that it be opened before her funeral, which was held today.

She disposed of an estate estimated at $27,500, of which $18,300 goes to various specifically named beneficiaries, principally Catholic charities. The residue is left in equal parts to St. Anthony's Catholic Parish, St. Francis Xavier Parish, this city, and the president of the Society of the Divine Word, Techny, Ill., for mission purposes. A niece, Miss Henrietta T. Haller, gets $4000.

The will named Edward V. P. Schneiderhahn as executor. Miss Haller, who was 65 years old, was formerly employed in the art department of Stix, Baer & Fuller Dry Goods Co.

could stand alone as a play without Mr. Romberg's delightful score—needs no retelling here. Sufficient to say that the plot, as told in Rida Johnson Young's book, concerns the loves of a boy and girl in New York, the old New York of 1840, who are torn apart by their parents, and the manner in which their grandchildren, some 70 years or so later, bring the two families together.

The story is told in four acts, or episodes, each at a different period in New York's history, and afford Director Schubert ample opportunity to display some gorgeous settings. The first act, particularly, was a beautiful picture and the period costumes added much to the charm of the presentation.

Mr. Romberg's music is delightful, boasting, as it does, the numbers "Sweetheart," "In Our Little Home, Sweet Home," "The Road to Paradise," each of which fell to Miss Carlisle and Mr. Robertson; the "Gypsy Song," done by Mr. Ceely, and Charles Purcell's "Jump Jim Crow."

Next Monday night the Municipal organization will present for the first time on any stage in America the original European version of "Madame Pompadour." An Americanized version was presented in New York some years ago.

Center County now has the largest population—5495—Hickory formerly having been the largest.

Only 3 Missouri counties, besides the City of St. Louis, gained population in the last decade, while 10 lost, but due to increases in the other areas, the State as a whole gained 43 per cent, and for the first time more than half its population resides in urban territory, that is, towns of 2500 or more.

The Associated Press record of the 1910 population of Missouri counties showing gains and losses, follows:

BELLEVILLE MINE BUILDINGS BURN; $200,000 DAMAGE

Five Workers Extinguish Fire in Shaft of Perry Coal Co. Set by Falling Timbers.

Fire destroyed seven frame buildings at the Superior mine of the Perry Coal Co., 7600 West Main street, Belleville, yesterday, causing damage estimated at $200,000. Sparks from a motor in the tipple building, which houses hoisting machinery, are thought to have started the blaze which spread to adjoining buildings before the Belleville Fire Department could check it. The loss was partly insured.

Blazing timbers from the tipple house, falling down the shaft, set fire to bracing timbers 160 feet below the surface, endangering 17 miners working there. Within 12 minutes the mine was filled with smoke and the miners walked more than a mile to escape through an airshaft, five remained and extinguished the blaze with an emergency hose.

The mine extends for about 50 acres under the grounds of the St. Clair Country Club. Smoke drawn down the hoisting shaft made fighting the fire difficult.

Besides the tipple house and its machinery, the machine shop, office building, blacksmith shop, fodder shed, coal bin and engine room were destroyed. Two loaded coal cars on a siding also were burned at a loss estimated at $8000. Six years ago a fire destroyed the mine buildings.

The mine is the largest in the Belleville district, employing normally about 150 men. A large crowd gathered and traffic on the Rock Road line of the East St. Louis & Suburban Railroad, two blocks away, was delayed two hours.

The flames spread with such rapidity that firemen confined their efforts to keep them from reaching nearby buildings.

The tipple building was 65 feet high and about 80 feet square, with steel framework.

TO TEST SANITY OF FATHER WHO KILLED THREE CHILDREN

West Virginia Laborer Apparently Deranged From Unemployment and Possibly Heat.

By the Associated Press. — MARTINSBURG, W. Va., July 22.—Taylor Hott, 34 years old, laborer, was held without bond for the grand jury today in the deaths of his three children, who he admitted slaying, presumably while mentally deranged from poverty, unemployment and possibly the heat. He killed them, he said, because his wife could not take care of them.

The children, Gertrude, 7, Calvin, 6, and Floyd Preston, 5, were found strangled in a quarry hole near here yesterday. Hott admitted he had taken them to the pool with a promise that they might go swimming, then bound them with strips of cloth and hurled their bodies into the quarry hole. An examination has been ordered to determine if he is mentally deranged.

200-word defense against the reasons for his recall. It is enough to say that these accusations are malicious and untrue.

"As Mayor he has worked faithfully for the good of the city and has saved the taxpayers millions of dollars. He has succeeded in having the State pay $8,000,000 per year for our street widenings and remove 275 felons from the House of Correction. He has saved the city thousands of dollars in reduced interest charges and reduced taxes. Lowest tax rate in 11 years.

ST. JAMES SOLDIERS' HOME INVESTIGATORS SELECTED

By the Associated Press. — JEFFERSON CITY, July 22.—A committee of four, all representatives of veterans' organizations in Missouri, was appointed today by Gov. Caulfield to investigate charges of bad conditions at the Federal Soldiers' Home at St. James.

The committee is composed of H. O. Hendricks, St. Louis, commander of the Missouri Department of the United Spanish War Veterans; Dr. Chalmers P. Woodruff, St. Louis, commander of the Missouri department of the Grand Army of the Republic; Maj. T. J. Strickler, Kansas City, commander of the Missouri department of the American Legion; and C. R. Cobble, Jefferson City, commander of the Missouri department of the Veterans of Foreign Wars. Hendricks is chairman.

The Governor pointed out that in November, 1929, Jacob Kuhl of St. Louis broadcast over Missouri a written statement containing 16 charges against equipment and conduct in the St. James institution, but that investigation by Maj. Strickler through a representative, at the request of the Governor, had shown the charges to be untrue. The Governor added that since then, however, the United Spanish War Veterans, at their encampment in Springfield in June had passed a resolution characterizing the home as a blot upon the escutcheon of Missouri, but that many of the members did not support this, according to communications received by the Governor.

60-DAY SENTENCE IN SLOT MACHINE CASES AGREED ON

Workhouse Term Fixed for Those Who Plead Guilty
12 Additional Warrants Issued.

Twelve additional warrants charging 12 men and a woman with setting up a gambling device were issued by the Circuit Attorney's office yesterday in connection with slot machine cases, bringing the total number of warrants of that nature to 23 and the number of persons under charges to 25. In the period since the police began renewed activity against slot machines this summer.

At the same time it was agreed that a 60-day workhouse sentence would be permitted on a plea of guilty to the charge as set forth in the warrant, with the alternative of a possibly longer sentence on standing trial. Fred F. Pollnow, former president of the Central Vending Machine Co., distributors of slot machines, is now serving a six months' jail sentence on his conviction on a similar charge two years ago, execution of the sentence being delayed by his flight
from the city.

In each of the cases the arrests
on which warrants were issued were made by officers in civilian clothes, who entered the business
place in which the slot machine
was kept, played it and obtained either nickels or tokens, which were exchanged for merchandise.

Those named in the warrants
yesterday are: Paul Sanders, proprietor of a drug store at 6201 Arsenal street; Joe McGuire Jr., waiter in his father's restaurant at 1211
Olive street; Hughie Lindeman, 2805 Blair avenue, clerk in a drug store at 2830 North Fourteenth street; Sam Jones and his wife, Mrs. Lulu Jones, proprietors of a restaurant at 418 South Seventh street; Morris Lachman, proprietor of "Grand-Chouteau" Inn, 3568
Chouteau avenue; Charles R.
Stugin, owner of a candy store at 4006 Shreve avenue; Thomas Constant, 1135 Union boulevard, chef
in the Owl Restaurant, 578 De Bailly avenue; Joseph Kronen-feld, who runs a confectionery at 3614 North Broadway; Gus Killmanis, owner of a poolroom at 921 Pine street; Edward Hickelheim, 1841 South Tenth street, employed at a saloon at 4571 Adams avenue; Ben Robinson, proprietor of a saloon at 1106

ST. LOUIS STOCK EXCHANGE, July 22.—International Shoe, Coca-Cola Bottling and Laclede Steel show price reactions today on the local board.

Pedigo-Weber stock declined and Scullin Steel preference and Burkett common showed losses. Key Boiler Equipment was another lower issue.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 22.—Price reductions of 7 to 10 per cent on staples and from 7 to 16 per cent on tropicals have been made by the American Woolen Co. in opening its lines for men's wear trade for the spring season.

The Chrysler Corporation has reduced prices on four models of the Chrysler "70" line. The business coupe was reduced $100 to $1245, the brougham $100 to $1245 and the royal coupe $100 to $1245. The sedan was reduced $150 to $1295.

Effective Aug. 1, the Consolidated Gas Co. of New York will reduce the price of gas for house heating purposes 20 per cent, subject to approval of the Public Service Commission.

Pines Waterbury Co. will start production this week on vertical vine type detachable winter floors for Ford cars, J. F. Raleigh, president, announced.

The total sugar melt of 15 United States refineries from Jan. 1 to July 12 was 2,770,000 tons in the corresponding period last year. Deliveries amounted to 2,360,000 long tons, compared with 2,525,000 in the like 1929 period.

Utilities Power, Light Corp., and Fluorine Gas Co. of Germany have formed a new holding company for European public utility companies, with the co-operation of the Deutsche Bank. The initial capital is 20,000,000 marks.

The preliminary figures show that 202,568 tons of flaxseed were crushed in the second quarter this year and 130,862,405 pounds of linseed oil produced, compared with 254,212 tons crushed and 187,615,513 pounds of oil produced in the like period last year.

Steel output averages in the Chicago district between January 1 and 1930 compared with 60 to 65 per cent last week. Two blast furnaces were taken off last week, one by the United States Steel Corporation and the other by the Inland Steel Co.

Reported from companies representing more than 60 per cent of the manufactured gas division of the gas utilities industry indicate that gross gas sales for May aggregated 20,196,937,000 cubic feet, a decline of one per cent from the like month last year, the statistical department of the American Gas Association reports. A group of the larger natural gas utilities, representing more than 70 per cent of the public utility distribution of the gas, reports sales of 31,252,143,000 cubic feet for May, compared with 35,573,437,000 cubic feet in May, 1929, a decrease of 11 per cent.

NEW YORK, July 22.—World food production in June totaled 18,541 short tons, compared with 19,127 in May and 153,779 in April, the American Bureau of Metal Statistics reports.

DIVIDEND DECLARATIONS

NEW YORK, July 22.—Directors of the Lindsay Light Co., of Chicago, have declared a quarterly dividend of five cents on the common stock, in addition to the regular quarterly disbursement of 15 cents, both payable Aug. 23 to stockholders of record Aug. 9. The stock will pay a similar extra May 17.

McKesson & Robbins, Inc., drug manufacturer and distributor, has decided to make the common dividend payable at the same time as the preferred. The dividend is $1.50 per share, payable on Dec. 15, March 15 and June 15. A statement by the company explained that the step was taken because the rapid growth and widely scattered branches "make it impossible to assemble consolidated figures as soon after the June 30 inventory period." Meetings for dividend action on both classes of stock will take place about 20 days prior to the dividend rates.

KANSAS CITY DRUGGIST HELD AS HEAD OF AUTO THEFT RING

Charged With Stealing Cars He Sold to Collect the Insurance.

By the Associated Press.
KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 22.—Sam Fitzgerald, druggist and a former motor cycle officer, is under arrest here on a charge of operating an automobile theft ring in which insurance companies were the victims.

The system, said H. E. Jury, head of the motor theft division of the Police Department, was to sell cars on the installment plan, insuring the buyers carry theft insurance to protect the sellers.

Then the sellers would steal the cars or have them stolen, Jury said, collect the insurance, disguise the cars and again offer them for sale.

Until recently Fitzgerald operated a motor car company here. The first theft of cars belonging to his establishment, Jury said, was reported to the police Dec. 17, 1929.

Fitzgerald, under $500 bond for appearance in Police Court, denies any connection with the scheme.

NEW YORK MAYOR DEFENDS CABINET

Walker Declares G. O. P.
"Can't Drag Administration Into Mire" to Make Issue.

By Leased Wire from the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, July 22.—Mayor Walker defended his administration in unqualified language last night while his 38 department and bureau heads and their deputies listened soberly in City Hall, and as much of the public of this and adjoining states as desired heard him over three radio stations.

The Mayor denied repeatedly and with vehemence that the "morale of the Walker administration is sinking lower," a theme which he culled from a recent newspaper editorial. One by one he recited the accomplishments of his various departments and bureaus—most of them in phrases reminiscent of last year's campaign text book—and defied anyone to show a suspicion of wrong doing.

"This administration," he declared, "shall not be dragged into the mire because the Republican party hasn't any issue to go into the campaign with this fall."

He admitted that a "public impression" had arisen during the last few months—how he would not say—that the "morale of the administration is sinking lower." That is why, he explained, he had chosen the unprecedented course of throwing "open the windows" so everyone could hear what he had to say to his cabinet.

It was much more of a pat on the back than a rebuke that the department heads received from their chief. Only at the end did he renew the warning which he is said to have given these same department heads on previous occasions, when the public did not hear.

"Now, it does not make any difference how well nor how long I know any man in this administration," he said. "It makes no difference whatsoever what my friendship for him may have been. It makes less difference what his political influence is. That man or woman who is guilty of misdeeds, of irregularity, of corruption, of dishonesty, cannot stay in this administration."

"Go back to your jobs tomorrow morning and believe it is more important to keep your nose to the grindstone than your ears to the ground," was his concluding word of advice.

St. Vincent de Paul Report.

The quarterly report of the St. Vincent de Paul Society, read at a meeting last Sunday at the Church of St. Vincent de Paul, showed that $27,412 was spent in the three months terminating June 30. Members of the association visited 593 poor families, and found employment for 68 persons. Officers of the society reported the unemployment situation to be worse than several years.

SAYS COTTON CO-OPERATIVES WILL ADVANCE 65 PER CENT

Carl Williams of Farm Board Says
Members Will Get Largest Amount Possible.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 22.—Carl Williams, Farm Board member representing cotton, said yesterday cotton co-operatives would advance to their members the largest amounts possible on the 1930 crop, adding that would be not less than 65 per cent of the market value of the cotton and perhaps more.

Williams said his attention had been called to statements that cotton co-operatives would not be able to advance more than 6 cents a pound this fall.

He said cotton co-operatives in Texas were now advancing 9 cents on unclosed cotton at the time of delivery and added all co-operatives would advance the largest possible amount consistent with safety.

TRUE ECONOMY is more than price deep

Total cost, not merely purchase price, determines the economy of a motor car. And so great are the ownership economies of Dodge cars that in final cost they actually prove less expensive than many cars lower in purchase price.

The Dodge Six and Eight-in-Line are deliberately built better than just good enough. The chassis is extra sturdy. Bearings are extra fine and extra large. Every material and every manufacturing operation is gauged to an excess margin of excellence. Less wear, longer life, lower upkeep are the natural results.

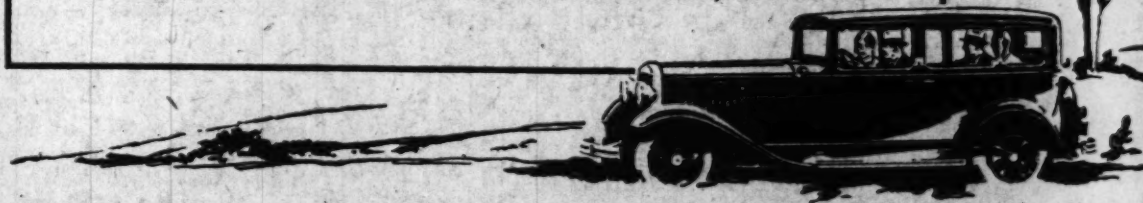

Sturdy, efficient Dodge engines get the most out of fuel and oil. The safe, silent Mono-Piece Steel Bodies require no maintenance expense. The internal hydraulic brakes are self-equalizing—need no adjustments nor lubrication—increase the life of tires.

If you want a car to do something more than merely take you places, if you want to motor with comfort, pride, peace of mind and lasting satisfaction and economy, a Dodge Six or Eight-in-Line is the car you should own. Drive one and learn that Dodge economy goes hand in hand with brilliant performance.

Little SINS

A Novel of Modern Youth

By KATHARINE BRUSH

CHAPTER 18.

THE parlor car squeaked like cheap new shoes, and shuddered down its length. It was hard to hold your balance going along the aisle; you had to grab the backs of the chairs to steady yourself. . . . In the little square wash room with the red-brown woodwork and the mirrors and the shiny nickel basins, it was harder still. Everything swayed. The green curtains that shrouded the door swayed. The great tear of water you drew in one basin and telly-like from side to side. The triangular towels with the blue belts vibrated on their lofty iron rack. Everything kept time to the tune of the train, to the thunderous drum of its wheels.

"We'll be there soon," remarked Mrs. Minafree.

"Yes," said Dolly. "In about 15 minutes," Nick said. "Oh shoot—how do you work this soap sifter, Minnie?"

Mrs. Minafree demonstrated. Importantly, Mrs. Minafree did all the things importantly. She was a plump, shapeless person, made of pillows; a florid and short-winded person, whose body belonged to ease but whose spirit, lodged in that body like wheels in a pudding, drove her on a lifelong round of business.

She sat down now on the single chair and regarded Dolly's back with bright, pleased eyes. Her expression was one of pride. At the same time she looked a trifle awed. Dolly, Quinn as one of her boarders had never waved a hand, but Dolly Quinn as Miss Manhattan, prize beauty, bewitchingly garbed and on her way to receive the adulation of myriads—well, there was a glamour strange and new about this Dolly. Only by reminding herself of her own promotion from the rank of landlady to that of beauty's chaperone did Mrs. Minafree conquer an impulse toward actual humility.

Sitting forward in her chair, one pulpy elbow resting on the ledge beside her, she optically overcame Dolly's attire and gazed over it. The tan kid shoes with the big brown buckles. The chiffon arched, low-heeled shoes in tan gown. A simple gown, subtly striking; part of an ensemble. A tan cloth coat lined with the silk of the dress, collared and cuffed widely in summer and tucked in. And a most becoming tan gown with an odd wide bronze ornament.

A certain wardrobe trunk in the baggage car contained, Mrs. Minafree knew, many other garments and accessories. The woman who did the dressing for the Gazette had helped Dolly select them; and the Gazette had said the breath-taking bills.

"Grand!" thought Mrs. Minafree ecstatically. Dolly reached for a towel and held her hands, holding them carefully at arm's length. She turned to a mirror, and seeing her chaperone's reflected eyes upon her, smiled demurely. Then Mrs. Minafree thought, "She will, she'll be the prettiest thing there." Mr. Standish, the fellow from the Gazette, thought so, too.

"But I won't tell," Mrs. Minafree determined. "She's going to get spoiled enough these next few days if what he says about the fuss they make over them is true."

She spoke aloud: "Fix your nameplate, dearie. Or whatever you call that thing." Dolly confronted her, fingers fidgeting worriedly across her chest. "Isn't it all right?"

"It was quite all right," Mrs. Minafree wanted something to do some part in the preparation of this delicacy for the imminent feast of eyes. "Could be better," she said critically. "Come here, I'll fix it for you. You want to be sure a letter shows, you know, so folks can read who you are."

"Nick says there'll be a mob at the station," began Dolly, but stopped at the green curtains yawning to admit one of her competitors; name unknown, label Miss Bronx.

Miss Bronx was sociable. She had been sociable throughout the trip, in a superior, professional-to-amateur sort of way—for this was the second Atlantic City pageant to which she had lent her rather metallic pulchritude.

"Well," she said, "we're almost there."

"Almost?"

"Suppose you're getting all nervous up?"

"No," said Dolly firmly, "not a bit."

Miss Bronx whipped out a pocket comb and raked it gingerly through her russet tresses. "If I had long hair like you," she remarked, "I'd wear it down my back in corkcreek curls. All the girls do at the Pageant who have long hair. Most of 'em, anyway."

"I think that's silly," said Dolly, "when you're grown up."

"Looks good, though."

"Straighten the seam of your stocking, dearie," Mrs. Minafree directed. "No, the other one."

"We got a swell manager," continued Mrs. Bronx. "Standish, he's good. He'll see we get lots of publicity. The one we had the last Pageant I was to—say, he was the bunk. Cook-eyed drunk all the time he was down here. I guess they fired him when he got back."

She pawed in a broadened handbag and brought forth a lipstick. "Get to put this on easy," she ob-

SYNOPSIS.

GAY LEONARD, young, beautiful, smiling of fortune, is loved by Alan Pomeroy, a wealthy, athletic young man. She is fascinated, however, by Jerry Davis, of questionable reputation. To get her away from him her family takes her off on an eight months' trip. Meanwhile, she thinks only of Jerry. She is somewhat jealous of Dolly Quinn, whom she has met in a cabaret, where Dolly has taken a job as hostess to earn extra money for art lessons. While Gay is away Jerry falls in love with Dolly and tells her so, but she does not care for him in that way. Through Nick Standish, newspaper man, she is selected to enter a beauty contest in Atlantic City. Jerry protests in vain. Gay comes back and is a guest at a lively house party nearby. Mrs. Matthews, her hostess, admits that she would like to see Gay marry Alan. Gay's friend, Jane McClure, begs her to tell her about her heart interest during her absence. She confesses she loves Jerry. During the evening's festivities Alan tries to get her to go outdoors. She refuses. She learns that Dolly Quinn is in the beauty contest and makes up her mind that she must see it, so she and Alan remain as guests of the Matthews.

served. "The judges aren't so hot for the make-up."

"Will the judges be at the station?" Dolly asked with swift eagerness.

"Don't suppose so. But if I wear red lips now I got to stick to 'em all week, that's the thing," Miss Bronx smirked knowingly. "Why all the worry about the judges?"

"I just want to see them, that's all."

"You mean you want 'em to see you?"

"No," said Dolly. "I want to see them. Some of them are famous artists and I—" She hesitated. "I just am sort of curious to see them."

"Well, you'll see 'em plenty," predicted Miss Bronx, patting her pointed chin with a grayish-pink powder pad. "You'll be sick of the sight of 'em Thursday, after you've stood for I don't know how long on the stage up at the high school while they buzz around you like a swarm of gnats. You'll see 'em in their hands. When they're all in you get picked for the semi-finals on Friday." Here, Miss Bronx shot a glance at Dolly via the mirror. "Only 15 are picked, you know."

"I won't be," said Dolly agreeably. "Come on, Minnie. I'm ready now."

In the passageway outside the door she leaned against the wall and looked up at Mrs. Minafree with solemn sapphire eyes. "Minnie," she said, "did you hear me tell her I wasn't nervous?"

"Sure did, dearie."

"Feel my hands."

Mrs. Minafree clasped the little hands with both of hers. They were ice cold.

She stepped down onto the porter's yellow box, and then onto the platform, and for an instant stood stock still, fighting off an insane desire to dive back into the train again. So many people! "Too many," she muttered rather indignantly to Nick who paused at her side.

The station yard had been reaped off. Outside the ropes, herded like animals, straining and pushing and stretching their necks, the people waited. Thousands of them. A dense human thicket, black in area.

Inside the ropes there were more people. People wearing bands of green and white and blue, scurrying distractedly about. Musicians in dark uniforms, playing rattles. Policemen on foot and on horse. Photographers. Reporters. Chaperones. Girls, girls, girls.

Nick's fingers gave her elbow a quick encouraging pressure. "Now, urchin," he said, "up and at 'em! Listen, see the bleachers over there?"

The bleachers stood across the station yard, facing the platform; a temporary wooden structure, four tiers high.

"Make for that," Nick went on. "The whole bunch has to pose there for the camera man. Smile your sweetest. Give 'em a million." He declared, and hastened off to succor some other of his charges.

"Minnie—"

"I'm here, dearie."

They crossed the platform side by side. "My goodness," said Mrs. Minafree as she went, "I wish they'd stop firing off that cannon. I've near jumped out of my skin five times already."

Her voice trailed off as a short, stout, brown young man in white knickers and a white sweater strode with a big red O came up to them.

"Hello there, Miss Manhattan!" he cried, thrusting out his hand. "Been looking all over for you. Begon to be afraid you hadn't come. You're escort. Frasier is the name. Sid Frasier, very much at your service."

Dolly liked him at once; his underdog manner and his unpensive smile. "I'm glad you found us," she said. "We were feeling terribly lonely."

They were now in the midst of the crowd that thronged the charmed inner circle. People were brushing against them in mad rushes to and fro. Girls and their chaperones were crying. Dolly sharply from all sides. Twice she was stopped and drawn aside to pose alone for cameras. Several men and one girl tagged with blue press badges questioned her briefly, and two of them asked for interviews later. A shrill boy voice from somewhere called, "Oh, you Miss Manhattan!" Approvingly.

Most approvingly. Before ever she reached the bleachers her stage fright had left her, and she sparkled with excitement and delight. This was fun!

Under the tan beret her eyes flashed blue-fire, darted here and there and everywhere, restless as little searchlights. Whenever they caught the eyes of other white-ribboned girls, Dolly's mouth curved in a radiant, intimate smile. "Isn't this fun?" it said, as plain as speech.

"You're just a kid, do you know it?" Frasier whispered gleefully in her ear.

"I can't help it, I'm!"

"Don't try to help it!" he exploded aloud. "It's great!" He added, lips to her ear again, "Most of them try to look blah, you know, as if they were used to this. You just keep on looking like Betty Claus has come—and maybe her slip something awfully nice in your stocking before the week's out, you never can tell."

Her other ear prickled with the voice of Minnie, importantly answering a reporter: "Just listen. Nineteen last month. . . . Yes, this is her first beauty Pageant. . . . chosen out of twenty-seven million. . . . And then, suddenly, 'What newspaper you from?'"

Already Mrs. Minafree was learning.

DAILY STORY FOR CHILDREN

By Mary Graham Bonner.

More Ocean Sights.

J OHN and Peggy and the Little Black Clock were having a wonderful time seeing the creatures who lived under the ocean and along the coast, for the Clock had turned the time ahead and he had a boat which could go so quickly as well as so far down in the water.

Now they went far up the coast where they watched seals going up to rest on the land where they trained their children.

"They have such sensitive whisker hairs," the Little Black Clock said, "and these help them when they dive."

"Then they are well-known for their blubber which keeps them warm and gives them their own heat in the cold climates."

After this they went and watched a number of members of the walrus family. They were lying down on some rocks and the Little Black Clock told the children that one was always on the watch-out for enemies. If this one should want to take a nap he would wake one of the others to take his place.

"There are such odd creatures in the ocean," said the Little Black Clock. "There are the mollusks, for example, which get enough material from the ocean for their shells so that they don't have to go away from their homes to shop."

"That's lucky for them," Peggy said.

"Isn't it? And there are the sucker sharks which swim by the sides of the sharks, or attach themselves below so they can get free rides," the Clock added.

They traveled now where they saw the coral creatures building on top of the pretty skeletons left by previous members of the coral family.

"They will keep on building until they reach the top of the ocean, but never above," the Little Black Clock said, "because they can't live out of water. Do you want to see some more of them?"

Both the children said that they did.

Quilt Chintzes.

I N THE general inawrap of past fashions, the patchwork quilt has a new lure. Now is the time to select some of the reproductions of old chintzes to be made into quilts by the ladies of the church or some elderly soul whose handwork is beautiful.

Such old-fashioned designs as now are shown include the snow-bell, the tulip, the windmill pattern, tiny florals in several colors, two tones of blue on white, or soft multi-colors on white.

Even under normal conditions we have always been in favor of changing the skin diet periodically. Switching from a cream cleanser to a soap cleanser to a liquid cleanser. Varying scientific treatments with natural treatments. In other words, using a specially prepared astringent one week and rubbing the skin with halved strawberries the next. Variety is likewise the spice of beauty, you see.

By the way, the green soap we have in mind is not green at all. It is best known as lincture of green soap, and is simply remarkable for the correction of blackheads, oily, pimples and large pores. Also it is obtainable at the average wall stocked drug store.

This going from one extreme to the other happens as well to dry skin which are treated with too much consistency. Many a parched skin has become unpleasantly oily through an overdose of nourishing cream and oily cleansers.

TELL IT TO SALLY

A Letter From a Lady Who Needs to Get Back to Earth.

By SALLY MARTIN

"DEAR Miss Martin: I have seen so many times where you have helped other young ladies with their troubles, so I wish to know if you will kindly give me your advice on this problem I am bringing you."

"I have been married now for two years, and now another has entered my life. I have been seeing a good deal of him, and he is wonderful. My husband is suspicious of my escapades, and quarrels with me about them."

"However, since I love my new acquaintance and not my husband, I do not think I should stop my affair with this other man. It thrills me so. Still, I have a sense of loyalty to my husband, too."

"What shall I do, Miss Martin? I know you will understand just how I feel, and I feel that you will help me. Please answer me as soon as possible, because my whole future depends on what you tell me."

"You just don't know how anxious I am about it all. Please do help me. . . . soon."

"What'll you do, Sister?"

"Well, first of all, sit down and take one good, long look at yourself. You need it!"

Quite plainly you expect me to hand you a lot of sympathy and tell you you're a poor, abused little thing and your husband is a Great Big brute."

But I won't do you any! You're kidding yourself that you're being unique—a Great Romantic Heroine. You're not. You're a common, little creature looking for a cheap thrill. You're willing to accept one man's love and loyalty and money while you play around with this piece of fish bait. And you think you're pulling a Big Act. Get wise to yourself, Lady. That cheap thrill. And if you don't come down to earth and get human, you'll get battered down—and I don't mean maybe."

Marriage, Molly, is more than a movie that you can leave if it proves monotonous. Marriage is the most serious and sacred job on earth. It's a job for a real woman. Want to be happy? Of course you do. But you'll never find happiness by yielding to every greedy, grabby impulse that floats into your mind. You'll have to fight for it. You'll have to sacrifice for it and stand steadfast and loyal to the adventure to which you're pledged.

HEALTH

Brief articles prepared by experts for the New York Academy of Medicine.

Edited by Dr. Jago Goldstein.

Asthma.

ASTHMA is a diseased condition in which the sufferer experiences difficulty in breathing. Commonly the patient complains that he cannot draw his breath. Actually, however, his difficulty is not in drawing breath, but in exhaling it.

The immediate cause of the difficulty of the asthmatic is a spasm of the bronchi.

These are hollow branch-like tubes which carry air from the wind-pipe to the minute air spaces in the lungs called air cells.

The ultimate cause or causes of asthma are numerous.

But they may all be classified as an extraordinary sensitiveness to foreign substances of a protein nature.

Commonly, asthma is due to certain food particles, pollen grains, animal or bird dander and certain plant powders.

An asthmatic attack may grip the sufferer at any time of the day. Most commonly, however, it occurs between 1 and 5 in the morning.

The explanation offered is that during these hours there is a change in atmospheric pressure, and in the temperature of the air.

The patient who perhaps went to bed feeling well, suddenly wakes at 3 or 4 in the morning struggling for breath.

The attack may last for a few minutes or for several hours.

In a certain number of persons suffering with heart or kidney diseases, attacks resembling asthma may develop. These, however, are usually embarrasments due to interference of normal circulation.

The "air hunger" is similar in both conditions; the causes, however, are different.

Long standing asthma may in time weaken the heart, and then the picture becomes complicated.

Sassafras Tea.

An excellent blood purifier during the warm weather. Wash and chip one-half cup of sassafras root and pour over it three and one-half cups boiling water. Let it draw for 10 minutes and then strain and serve hot, the person imbibing sweetening it to taste.

TWO CROCKERS

A PIECE
—OF—
HER MIND
By ELSIE McCORMICK

THE old question of opium in the East has been brought up again by Jabez T. Sunderland in his recent book, "India in Bondage."

Mr. Sunderland blames a great many of India's woes on the fact that the British Government has not destroyed the opium traffic or prevented fields from being sown with the poppy. The Government probably has good intentions in that respect, although it has no doubt learned by now that it is much easier to start the opium business than it is to end it.

Anyway, the conscience of the ruling class is much more tender than it used to be. In the time of Warren Hastings no excuse was needed for dragging a subject people except the amount of the profits. Nowadays, however, the traffic is defended only with high humanitarian reasons.

An English paper in Rangoon, for instance, recently opposed the closing of opium dens on the ground that to do so would interfere with the liberty of the individual conscience. The paper also stated that it would not be fair to take the solace of opium away from the East as long as the comfort of alcohol was allowed in the West.

When I went to China, I was surprised to learn that the opium habit is rather a new thing. A few centuries ago the poppy was grown merely to furnish ladies with flowers for their ebony coiffures.

Smoking the drug, which became popular around the end of the eighteenth century, originated in Java among the Dutch. First just a small pinch was added to the tobacco to help tired planters forget the snakes and the banana blight. In only a short time, however, opium was occupying the pipe bowl in solitary state, and pink pythons were playing on the branches.

The Chinese made a valiant fight to keep the drug out of the country, yielding only after British warships had bombarded Canton and laid waste a number of the river ports. The earlier law, on the subject, was very strict. Keepers of opium shops were strangled, and their employees beaten with a hundred blows. Peddlers who sold the drug spent a month wearing the wooden collar, a playful little device that made eating difficult and sleep practically impossible.

There was punishment for boatmen who transported the drug, for messengers who carried it through the streets, and for policemen who failed to intercept it. In fact, everybody was made to pay a penalty by the law as a helpless victim. This is just the reverse of the Western method.

Now, through an odd change in the morals of nations, the very country that forced opium on China is trying through the Customs Service to prevent the drug traffic. All this is very confusing to the Chinese. As they settled their moral attitudes twenty centuries ago, they cannot understand why a nation should change so much in less than ninety years.

Naturally the Customs Service has a merry time trying to catch up with the little drug-making pills. Remember the case of a coolie who left the wharf with two baskets of peanuts at the ends of a bamboo pole. As no policeman was ever known to let a basket of peanuts pass him unmolested, the local representative of the law promptly reached for a handful. He discovered to his interest that the kernels consisted of opium.

A smiling old Chinese woman once got aboard a river boat with a mother cat and five new-born kittens. Taking a second look at the bairns, a customs officer discovered that they had departed from this world and been stuffed with the peace-giving drug.

One of the cleverest ideas of the opium smugglers is to connive with servants and so place the stuff in the baggage of people beyond reproach. More than one missionary has been acutely embarrassed by having the customs officers discover opium among his hymnals and black dicker.

In some provinces the habit is so widespread that children practically cut their teeth on the small-bowled pipes. An American recently told of visiting a middle-class household in Shensi and finding the head of the house teaching opium smoking to his reluctant married daughter. She would have to learn, he said, otherwise the neighbors would think that her people were too poor to give her a good time. Keeping up with the Joneses exists in China as well as in the United States.

Creator of the Bungle Family Was Ice Man and Dish Washer Before He Took Up Cartooning

Harry J. Tuthill in the grape arbor of his Ferguson home.

The artist and two of his favorite pets.

Tuthill in his workshop where he spends much of his spare time.

This is the eighth in the series of articles, appearing every day in the Magazine Section of the Post-Dispatch, on the well-known artists who draw the "funnies."

By H. H. NIEMEYER

Encouragement in that field was slight so he submitted three Meas for comic strips to the McNaught Syndicate in New York and was engaged—by wire.

AMONG those three strips was the Bungle Family. That, by the way, was in 1919 so that the Bungles, still going strong, have been alive, and kicking, for eleven years.

The syndicate which distributed his cartoons soon discovered that the Bungle family was the most popular. At first it made its appearance once a week but the other two comic strips were discarded and the Bungles grew into a daily and Sunday feature.

"The Bungles were just an accidental creation," says Tuthill. "I didn't have anybody in mind when I drew them. They just happened. I never got tired of drawing them, the same characters, day after day or rather night after night for I find the evening the best time for creative work. They do represent types, of course, but no identifiable persons. I draw them, send them off to New York to be distributed to the newspapers around the world. I believe about 150 papers are using them now."

TUTHILL'S home out in Ferguson is a big old house set in some three acres of ground. Some distance away from the main house is another building which he has made into a studio and workshop. When he isn't drawing he tinkers with old automobiles. Gets a great kick out of buying three old broken down machines and rebuilding them into one pretty good one. In his workshop he can build most anything, but automobiles rank first.

He says he has no real hobby but all the same he has a fine collection of old books—mostly medical and law books. Some day he thinks he may get around to studying either law or medicine but right now he'd rather doctor up an old machine and have the gratification of hearing the wheels go 'round.

Tuthill's wife, who helped him a lot when he was trying to get on his feet, died 15 years ago. His two sons, his sister, a young nephew, make up his family.

Talks to PARENTS
By Alice Judson Beale

The Parent's Power

EVERYONE who thinks about such things knows that the person who holds the child's love is the one who most easily and profoundly influences his conduct.

It is because of this that even those fathers and mothers who see rather little of their children keep their prestige with them. This power which a parent possesses he of course tries his best to use in a constructive way.

Often, however, through factors at which he is entirely unconscious, he turns it to the worst possible account.

A child may be able to dismiss the ill-tempered outburst of a nursemaid without permitting it to cast over his mood more than a temporary shadow. A parent's irritability is another matter.

Only the most insensitive child can come from an unhappy scene with his father or mother without carrying with him a good deal of distressing emotion which in turn reacts upon his conduct. The nervousness, anxiety, or instability of temperament which may characterize a parent are sure to find an echo in the child.

It is because of this close emotional relationship between parent and child that a mother possesses at once a great advantage and a great disadvantage. She can so easily influence both for good and ill.

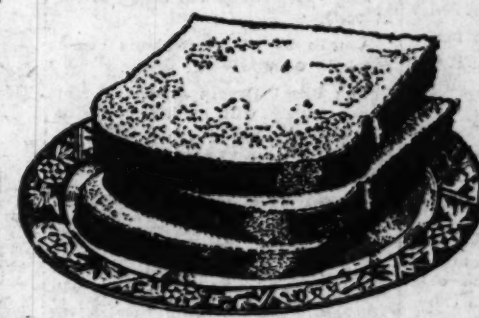

Her smile, her interest, may release unsuspected talents. Her disapproval may lock the door of the brightest possibilities. The mistakes which she makes are far more difficult to eradicate than those which anyone else may perpetrate.

She must be careful never to exploit her power for her own ends or the convenience or impulse of the moment.

To Fill Cracks.

To fill cracks and repair furniture you will find the wood composition, which comes in tubes like paste, very convenient. It is easily manipulated and there is no waste. It becomes hard as the wood and needs merely to be stained and polished to become quite invisible.

DON'T FOOL yourself. There's an easier way to wash dishes—a way so simple, you'll be amazed! All you need to do is soak glasses, silver, dishes in creamy Rinso suds. See how the grease soaks off! A hot rinse, and your dishes dry clear without wiping. Even pots and pans come shining bright with little scrubbing. Rinso is so economical. Cup for cup, it gives twice as much suds as lightweight, puffed-up soaps. Lively, last-

Don't LET HIM JOIN YOU at dinner!

A fly has no table manners. He'll put his elbows in the sugar bowl and wipe his toes on your napkin. Don't wait until he has tracked a trail of germs across the cake-frosting. Kill him before he gets near the table—scitth P. D. Fill the dining room with P. D. vapor between meals. Just push the handle on a P. D. spray-gun and out comes a stainless vapor fragrant with cedar—death to insect pests that fly, creep or crawl. Sold by druggists, grocers, hardware stores and Sinclair Service Stations. Advance Is Swiftly Accelerated by Short Covering and Attracts Profit-Taking—Extreme Gains of 2 to 8 Points in Important Shares Cut to 1 to 5.

GEN. MOTORS EARNS
$1.17 IN QUARTER

Volume of Trading Expands but Moderately and Fails to Approximate Busiest Days Last Week—'Meehan Group' Credited With Being Factor.

NEW YORK, July 22. — With determination of Caesar crossing the Rubicon, the bull faction launched an aggressive campaign today's stock market, but the advance was swiftly accelerated by rush of short covering, got out hand toward the close, and attracted heavy profit taking, which checked extreme gains of 2 to 8 points in important shares to about 1 to 5.

General Motors was a leader, up 2 points through its previous advance point, and closing up 1 1/2 points in this issue was apparently in anticipation of the second quarter earnings statement, published after the close, and showing of $1.34 per common share, of which 17 cents resulted from the sale of stock to General Motors Management Corp., a comparison with Wall Street estimates of about $1.20, and was far in excess of quarterly dividend requirements of 75 cents. It closed with 58 cents in the first quarter, and $2.01 in the second quarter of last year.

'Meehan Group' Called Factor. The bull campaign was in a measure attributed to broker's circles to the so-called "Meehan Group" of operators, and came on the heels of a widely advertised statement by M. J. Meehan, Co., saying that the present presented excellent opportunities for the prudent investor. Stocks owned by this group were traded in large volume.

While speculative sentiment generally has become rather bullish for the more distant future, there is a feeling that the success of the recent movement will depend largely upon the extent of the seasonal upturn in business activity and the amount of public participation which can be attracted.

The day's business news still reflected little but seasonal trends were more optimistic, but Iron Age placed steel mill operations as changed at 56 per cent of capacity, against 55 a year ago, and two years ago. Freight car loadings reported for the latest week continued at the lowest level in recent years. The weekly Bureau statistics, however, were favorable, showing other substantial reductions in stocks and crude production. Earnings statements coming hand continue to show a few encouraging exceptions to the downward tendency.

Credit eased. Call loans were lowered at 2 per cent, and funds were available in the outside market as low as 1 per cent. Shorter time money also showed an easier tendency. Further exports were without influence.

Trade Volume Moderate. The volume of trading was but moderately expanded, total sales aggregating 2,500,000 shares, and falling to approximately the busiest of last week. Profit taking was more or less in evidence throughout the day. During the morning and during the early afternoon, stocks sold off a little at times, the best levels were reached shortly before the selling movement broke out at the close.

Foreign exchanges were generally steady. Sterling cables reached a high for the movement at 164 1/2, or 1/4 above parity.

Stock prices, with other tables and market news, will be found on Pages 10C, 11C, 12C and 13C.
